CRUDE WORRY AS OPEC+ TO REVISIT PRODUCTION HIKE

A month after the cartel agreed to ramp up supply, Kuwait's oil minister on Sunday said the decision could be revisited

CRUCIAL CARTEL MEETING ON SEPTEMBER 1

Kuwait prefaced its observation on some markets being engulfed in the 4th wave of the pandemic, Reuters reported. OPEC+ had agreed to raise supply by 4,00,000 barrels per day after shuttering 45% production last year. The grouping meets on September 1 to take a call, but since Brent prices jumped back to $72.75 on Sunday, another acrimonious session is likely

BAD NEWS FOR INDIA IF RATES SPIRAL

- The International Energy Agency had slashed demand outlook for 2021 after Brent price slumped to below $64 in August first half, and warned of a surplus in 2022. But prices rallied after that
- Rise in rates, coupled with a supply cut, slims hopes for a fuel rate cut and may not let inflation cool down in countries like India

CM revises Metro Ph-II deadline to 2024, a year ahead of schedule

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Sunday announced that Bengaluru Metro's 72.1 km Phase-II project will be ready by 2024, a year before the earlier proposed deadline. With Metro projects already on a tight schedule due to Covid-induced delays, the announcement came as a surprise.

This is in sharp contrast to previous Metro events since the norm during the commissioning of every new stretch was to announce an extension of the deadline for ongoing projects.

The Chief Minister made the announcement at a function at the Kengeri Bus Terminal Metro station after taking the first Metro ride from Nayandahalli Metro station, in the company of Union Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri and state ministers. "I have told Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) officials to complete all Phase-2 projects by 2024. Officials told me it is difficult, but I told them that they have to struggle if they have to overcome the difficulties," he said.

Translating it from Kannada to English for Puri, he said, "I am confident it can be done by 2024."

US drone takes out IS car bomb to save airport

Elusive Taliban supreme leader in Kandahar, to appear in public soon, says spokesperson

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

IN its second airstrike in successive days on Sunday to safeguard the evacuation process in Kabul, a US drone took out an ISIS-K car bomb that was being readied to attack the airport. There were also reports of multiple suicide bombers on board when the car was taken out. Big secondary explosions after the drone strike indicated the vehicle was loaded with explosives, US officials said.

The attack came on day when a militia rocket struck a building at Kabul's Khuwja Bughra, around 1 km from the airport, killing a child. No group claimed the attack, but the White House said similar attacks were likely in Kabul in the next 24-36 hours.

Regarding the IS suicide attack that killed over 180 people outside the Kabul airport on Thursday last, intelligence reports in Western media suggested that Al-Qaeda's Khalil Haqqani had facilitated it.

Elusive Taliban supreme leader Hibatullah Akhundzada, who was thought to be in Pakistan army's custody, arrived in Kandahar, spokesman Bilal Karimi said. "I can confirm he is in Kandahar. He will soon appear in public," Karimi said.

France's President Emmanuel Macron said Paris and London on Monday planned to jointly propose at the UN the creation of a 'safe zone' in Kabul that would allow for 'humanitarian operations'.

As for the Kabul airport, a Taliban official said they had engineers and technicians ready to take charge of it. "We are waiting for the final nod from the Americans to secure full control over Kabul airport as both sides aim for a swift handover," he said.

Banks opened for the first time under the new Taliban rule, but with a cap on daily withdrawals. While some complained of still being unable to access their money, government employees claimed they have not been paid over the last four months. Reports of continuing Taliban brutality came in, the latest being the gunning down of a folk singer north of Kabul. Fawad Andarabi was shot dead from point-blank range in the Andarabi Valley in Baghlan province.

In what was seen as Taliban's outreach, its leader Sher Mohd Abbas Stanekzai said they wanted to retain economic and political ties with India. In a video address, Stanekzai referred to the air corridor between India and Afghanistan established to boost trade after Pakistan's refusal to allow transit access. "We need to keep the air trade open," he said.

Modi to expedite administrative reforms promised two years ago?

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi is learnt to have told his ministerial colleagues to expedite implementation of the party's 2019 vision document for the Lok Sabha elections. He also asked the newly inducted ministers to closely study the BJP's 2014 and 2019 manifestos and prioritise steps for their faster implementation from their respective ministries.

In two meetings of the council of ministers held soon after the Cabinet rejig, Modi's instructions were to focus on deliverables in the 2019 vision document, which was drawn up incorporating crowd-sourced ideas.

Within the BJP, party leaders are particularly looking at three big areas that are yet to be addressed: administrative, police and judicial reforms. There's anticipation within the party that Modi may soon embark on the promised administrative reforms. The 2019 vision document spoke of reforms in the civil services to meet the objective of minimum government, besides merging similar and complementary departments into sectoral ministries. The document had also promised police reforms by framing a model Police Act in consultation with states.

Modi's urgency appears to be directed at addressing political challenges in the aftermath of the second Covid wave. While the BJP can claim to have ticked the nationalism checkboxes in the document like taking out Articles 370 and 35A as also the CAA, there are loads of unfulfilled assurances, like building consensus for simultaneous polls, single voter list across polls, doubling farmers' income by 2023, completing dedicated railway freight corridor projects by 2022, among others.

Higher edu institutions

The vision document promised to enhance capacities of higher education professional institutions by 50%, apparently to facilitate the implementation of the 10% EWS quota

We've studied the vision document. Steps are being listed for their implementation in an orderly manner

Mother's push behind Nishad's jump

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

MOTHER Pushpa Devi looked in horror as her eight-year-old son Nishad Kumar's right hand got dismembered by a grass-cutting machine in their farm almost 13 years ago in Amb town of Una district, Himachal Pradesh. Being a former national-level volleyball player herself, her dream was to see her son take up sports at the highest-level, before it came crashing down many moons ago. Devi still remembers how her son was lying unconscious in a pool of blood with his limb cut off from the elbow.

While it did cut short Devi's dreams for the time being, it seldom stopped her from ensuring Nishad played some sport or the other. That faith and determination eventually yielded a high jump silver medal in the T47 category for India at the Tokyo Paralympics on Sunday, August 29, incidentally celebrated as National Sports Day. The 21-year-old cleared 2.06 m setting an Asian record to finish joint-second with American Dallas Wise. USA's Roderick Townsend clinched the gold with a world record jump of 2.15 m.

"My mother was alone on the field that fateful day. She, however, didn't lose heart. In fact, she was so determined to make him a sportsperson that my brother started competing barely a year after that accident," Rama Devi, Nishad's sister, told this daily.

Nishad even competed against able-bodied athletes in the 2017 School Nationals. In the same year, he shifted to Tau Devi Lal Stadium in Panchkula, Chandigarh to hone his skills. He won bronze in the 2019 World Para Athletics Championships in Dubai with a jump of 2 m to secure a Paralympic quota.

"He was confident of winning a medal. Even in the morning when I spoke to him, I was nervous but he assured me not to worry," informed the sister.

Nishad twice returned Covid-19 positive earlier this year but continued improving his show by setting his personal best on two occasions, the second one of 2.07 m came at the trials.

KENGERI LINE MAY FREE UP BUSY MYSURU ROAD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE much-awaited Metro elevated line between Mysuru Road and Kengeri became operational on Sunday, with Union Minister for Housing and Urban Affairs Hardeep Singh Puri and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai flagging off the first train on the 7.5-km line from Nayandahalli Metro Station at 10.30 am.

The line was supposed to be inaugurated by December 2019. Top politicians, senior government officials and the media dominated the crowd on board but a few passengers managed to make their way on board the first train.

> K N Krishna Prasad, Commuter

Commercial operations on the Rs 1,820-crore Reach-2 Extension line, which stretches across the western corridor of the East-West Corridor of Phase-I, will be launched on the auspicious day of Janmashtami, August 30, at 7 am.

B R Narasimhan, a quality engineer at Hindustan Unilever Limited, who resides at Magadi Road, reached Nayandahalli in his car. "My five-year-old son Karthick was very excited to take the trip and even got up early in the morning. I also wanted to go around looking at the new stations." The speed and comfort impressed him.

K N Krishna Prasad of Karnataka Rail Users group was also a happy commuter. "It is a welcome move. We can have seamless connectivity between South West Bengaluru and Central Business District and North East parts of Bengaluru. It reduces burden on our city roads and Kengeri may emerge as an inter-modal hub."

Vijayakumaran, a retired BHEL employee, billed his experience as a very pleasant one. "I often travel by road along this stretch, which is full of traffic and takes a long time. Now, within 15 minutes, I can travel between Vijayanagar and Kengeri."

Airport Line, ORR by June 2026: Puri

Union Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri said that both Phase-2A from Central Silk Board to KR Puram and Phase-2B from KR Puram to Kempegowda International Airport will be completed by June 2026. The Centre approved them in June 2021. The ORR Line runs for a length of 19.75 km with 13 elevated stations and the Airport Line runs for 38.44 km with 17 elevated stations.

High-speed rail project takes everyone by surprise

Bengaluru will be the only city to be connected by the Metro rail, suburban rail and a high-speed rail projects in the future. "No international airport will have these facilities. It is not a dream, it is possible and we are going to do it," Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said. However, the announcement of high-speed rail project took everyone by surprise as officials seemed to be oblivious to the development.

Metro's punctuality rate 99.8%

Bengaluru Metro has one of the highest punctuality rates at 99.8 per cent and there is not much scope to improve it further, Puri said. He hoped that when the Bengaluru network spreads and reaches its total potential of 170 km, it could maintain its high punctuality standards and green mobility.

Women in the driver's seat

The Metro inaugural special was steered by Train Operators Gowthami B A and Smitha M Revanakar. The train, which carried CM Basavaraj Bommai, Union Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri, Revenue Minister R Ashoka, Minister for Cooperation ST Somashekar and Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya, was driven by two women- M Divyashree and Sree Latha G.

12 High-Density Roads & more CBDs

The city will have 12 High-Density Roads connecting it seamlessly with important neighbouring cities, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. They will be developed using artificial intelligence signalling. As Bengaluru is an economically crucial city, it can potentially house three or four more Central Business Districts (CBD), he added.

A train every 10 minutes

The fare for the new 7.5 km stretch connecting Mysuru Road and Kengeri would be Rs 22. A train will run every 10 minutes between the terminal station Baiyappanahalli and Kengeri, a distance of 25.6 km, including the newly-launched line. The travel time would be 52 minutes and the cost of a ticket would be Rs 56.

RV Road or Whitefield will be next

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WITH the Kengeri Line launched, Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited will look to extend its reach to Whitefield or Bommanahalli.

BMRCL Managing Director Anjum Parwez told TNIE that it would be difficult to say which will be the next project in line for completion, as the deadline and work depend on the contractor and agency. "As I see the progress right now, there are two contenders -- Whitefield-K R Puram Line and Reach-5 Line (R V Road to Bommanahalli). Whichever gets completed early will be inaugurated first," he said.

To a query on Metro Third Phase, Parwez said it was still in the Detailed Project Report stage. "Now with the Central Silk Board, Hebbal and Airport route added to Phase-2, the eastern side of Ring Road will be covered in this phase. The western side of Ring Road will be covered Phase-3." It would ensure that the entire ORR is covered by Metro, he added.

From Hosahalli, BMRCL is planning to map another line towards Magadi Road, he added.

An official release by BMRCL said that 45km of Metro line would be covered under this phase, the ORR West Line from Kempapura to JP Nagar Phase 4 for 32.16 km, and Magadi Road Line from Hosahalli Metro station to Kadabagere, covering 12.82km.

MTB appeals for Metro till Hoskote

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

SMALL-SCALE Industries Minister MTB Nagaraj appealed for metro connectivity from Bengaluru till Hoskote to help techies working at Whitefield, which houses many IT parks. Hoskote is 10km outside BBMP limits and is close to Whitefield.

He submitted a memorandum to Union Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri, who inaugurated the extended Bengaluru Metro line between Nayandahalli and Kengeri on Sunday.

In his memorandum, Nagaraj stressed that Whitefield not only houses IT parks, but commercial and apartment complexes as well. The Metro will also reduce traffic burden in the area as many people travel along this stretch.

He said that Hoskote is close to Malur, Nandagudi and Kolar industrial areas, where thousands are employed. This apart, an alternate road connecting Kempegowda International Airport passes through Hoskote.

"In terms of real estate and other essentials, Bengaluru is costlier than Hoskote. That's why a lot of people prefer staying there. The Metro will help them," he said.

METRO IS 'FUTURE LINE' OF BENGALURU, SAYS CM

ELABORATING on the Mysuru Road-Kengeri Line, Bommai said the new line has been launched in areas that have a high population density and will benefit a lot of people. "Bengaluru is an international city. We cannot imagine an international city without a Metro. Metro is not only the lifeline, but the future line of Bengaluru," he said.

"The greatest challenge is whether we will be able to keep up the timelines in implementing the projects. The first decision I have taken (after assuming charge as chief minister) is that I will personally supervise major infrastructure projects. Within the next 20 days, my dashboard will be ready and I will get day-to-day updates," he said.

PETER VIDAL

30th August: Cancer, that intuitive and artistic sign, is particularly active at the moment. It follows that our actions over the next few weeks will tend to be guided by our feelings and creative passions rather than the facts. That's great for people who don't worry about 'real life', not so good for people who do!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It's your period of the month for getting down to brass tacks as far as money is concerned. This is no time for frivolous attitudes and pretentious poses, and all risks must have their odds carefully calculated. A personal commitment might also come with a price tag, as it happens.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You may expect an emotional start to the day, and if someone should happen to fly off the handle you will only make matters worse if you play the innocent. You know far more than you pretend! Give other people the benefit of the doubt - just for a change.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
This is not an especially favourable time for expressing feelings or engaging in family discussions mainly because, although you have your normal excellent grasp of the facts, these may be completely irrelevant! The best path might be to follow a gut instinct, just as long as you can restrain your impatience.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You are sandwiched between two splendid groups of planets. I can quite understand if your only options seem to be a choice between the devil and the deep blue sea, but it's not really that bad. You just have to master the incredible feat of going all out for the future while hanging on to everything that's best from the past.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Spare some time to pursue important professional goals, and if you're not currently at work, make a community ambition your main priority. It doesn't matter what it is, just as long as the end result is an increase in your prestige, status and self-worth.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You are still in a quandary over one particular personal matter. You are no doubt concerned to know when the air will clear, but it could be a few months yet, so you may as well stop worrying. The question you should ask is what you can do to help yourself now, rather than waiting for circumstances to change.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The most important planetary relationships of the day are excessively prosperous, but for some strange reason they are likely to benefit any family members rather than you. Perhaps you'll pick up the crumbs from somebody else's abundant good fortune.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Life goes on in spite of someone else's mildly obstructive behaviour. Actually, it may occur to you that rather than resisting a partner's criticism, there may be something very useful for you to learn. Listen well and you'll eventually turn the tables on them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You can't keep everybody happy all of the time. Whatever is proposed now is bound to displease someone but, rather than wasting your time on such ungrateful types, why don't you just change tack and mix with people who value your truly wonderful gifts?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You must continue to take your bearings at every available opportunity. The overall tension and uncertainty in your life should be considerably less than it was one or two years ago, but you still need regular sign-posts if you're to find your way along life's little voyages.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Sensational planetary aspects are now coming so thick and fast that you might soon come to take good luck for granted. That would be a shame, for you'll then stop noticing your advantages and could even let a valuable opportunity slip through your fingers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
In spite of your reputation, you are often very good at explaining yourself. In fact, you may be one of the only people for miles around who is capable of comprehending the true significance of today's emotional events. Your wisdom may be much in demand.

6 months after vax, health workers to be tested for Covid antibodies

Study will provide data on level of immunity, interval between doses, necessity of booster dose

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

IN order to test antibody levels and check whether they have waned over a period of six months, and also judge the need for vaccine booster doses, Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research is conducting a retest on healthcare workers. These workers were vaccinated with both doses by February this year, and when tested for antibodies in April, they showed a good response. The study will be repeated in September with the same set of people, at this hospital.

"When we tested them in April, 80 per cent showed good antibody response. By the time we conduct the retest, six months would have elapsed since both the doses. If the drop in antibodies is significant, there may be a justification for booster doses, at least for those with comorbidities, those in hospitals and frontline workers. It is not possible to give everyone a booster dose as people have not completed their first and second doses yet, especially due to short supply of vaccines. We need to have our own data. If antibody levels have not dropped, it will give confidence to vaccine beneficiaries," said Dr C N Manjunath, director of Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research.

A health worker administers Covid-19 vaccine to a woman in Malleswaram in Bengaluru on Sunday | SHRIRAM BN

Dr Manjunath said there is a need to reduce the interval between the first and second vaccine doses. It can be reduced from 12-16 weeks to 6-8 weeks. Otherwise, if people get infected in between, antibodies from the first dose may not be sufficient to fight off the infection. The second dose generates the best antibodies, he said.

However, there is a divide among the medical community on the need to test antibodies, and on booster doses. "It is not correct to constantly check antibodies and give booster doses. It is not sensible or scientific and there are always financial interests involved," said epidemiologist Dr Jayaprakash Muliyil, a core member of the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation.

"Both natural infection and vaccination produce long-lasting immunity. We don't need a continuous state of antibodies. Antibodies will come down after a while but when there is an infection, the body will remember and fight back. When the body is again exposed to the Covid-19 protein, it will respond when stimulated, and produce antibodies. There is no need to have high levels of antibodies always, we just need the ability to fight back," Dr Muliyil explained. He said that antibodies do not show the whole dimension of the immune profile. If you get breakthrough infection (infection despite vaccination), the body will be able to fight back appropriately and it will not be serious, he added.

15 nursing students test positive in KGF

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @KGF

KOLAR district, which has seen very few Covid-positive cases, has seen a sudden spike with 15 positive cases being reported in a nursing college in KGF. Deputy Commissioner Dr Selvamani directed the health department to test all 375 students of the college, and a team of health workers was deputed to the Noorunnisa College of Nursing in Andersonpet area of KGF, to collect samples.

Preliminary probe revealed that the students had arrived from Kerala, Dr Selvamani said. Instructions were given to the tahsildar and health officials to collect more information about their arrival, RT-PCR reports and other details, and submit them immediately.

District Surveillance Officer Dr Chandan told TNIE that the 15 students were admitted in BGML Hospital, and the remaining students were isolated in the hostel, and swabs were collected. The exact number of infections will be known after the test results are out, he said. He said the area was declared a containment zone. KGF City Municipal Commissioner Naveen Chandra said additional staffers will be deputed in the thickly-populated Andersonpet area to disinfect the areas surrounding the college. Measures will be taken to clean the area twice a day, in coordination with the health and revenue departments, till the cases reduce, he said.Following the outbreak of cases in KGF taluk, which was showing single-digit infections, the authorities appealed to the people of Andersonpet to take all measures to control the spread of the virus.

PHANA to submit report on 3rd wave preparedness

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Private Hospital and Nursing Association (PHANA) will submit a report prepared by an expert committee under Dr Hema Divakar and a team of specialists, outlining the details about preparedness for third wave on Monday to Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar.

The recommendations by the team include training healthcare workers in private hospitals and vaccine advocacy.

The committee has decided to link the PHANA bed portal to the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's bed portal for uploading the status of beds. It will further enhance telemedicine services, admission and discharges will be uploaded immediately on the portal.

The report added recommendations like appointment of an operation task force, bed capacity plan, infection prevention team, developing advanced plans to handle critical patients and incorporation of advanced therapies like mechanical ventilation and ECMO.

Mainly, it was pointed out that all the private hospitals need to carry out vaccination drives. "The hospitals need to address vaccine hesitancy and carry out inoculation drives. Employees of private companies or factories can be vaccinated at one such drive. This will help cover most of the population," said Dr Hema Divakar, consultant ObGyn and Medical Director, Divakar's Speciality Hospital.

'ARE YOU A DIABETIC? THEN WE CAN SAVE YOUR FEET'

DR AMIT JAIN, FOUNDER, MODERN DIABETIC FOOT SYSTEM

Amit Jain's Institute of Diabetic Foot & Wound Care is a dedicated wing for diabetic foot and wounds at Brindhavvan Areion Hospital, Chamrajpet. This wing is headed by renowned pioneer of diabetic foot, Dr Amit Jain who deals with infective and non-infective problems in lower limb and foot of patients with diabetes and non-diabetics. Further, it also deals with other surgical problems in diabetic patients.

The division is supported by dedicated wound care assistants and nurses and also by radiology wing. All high risk diabetic foot cases requiring intensive care services (ICU) and major amputations are done at the hospital. Various advanced technology for diabetic foot care and most wound care products are available at the Areion Pharmacy round-the-clock.

According to Dr Kishore Kumar, Director of Brindhavvan Areion Hospital, there are increasing number of patients with diabetes and so are its complications. "One dangerous and neglected problem is the foot in diabetics and there are very few appropriately qualified, trained and experienced diabetic foot surgeons working in this field extensively," he said.

The hospital has established a dedicated diabetic foot Institute that was named after Dr Amit Jain, who is considered to be Father of Modern Diabetic Foot system. "Based on his extensive innovative work done from India on diabetic foot as per medical literature, naming the institute on Amit Jain was a mark of respect to a doctor who had done a dedicated work of excellence on this neglected field and his philanthropic work through Amit Jain's project that is running for more than 6 years," says Dr Suresh Kumar, Director of Brindhavvan Areion Hospital.

Foot is one of the most neglected parts in a patient with diabetes. According to Dr Apoorva HC, Diabetic Foot Care expert at Amit Jain's Institute of Diabetic Foot & Wound Care, it is seen that people do not take care of their feet as much as they take care of their face. "They don't show to a diabetic foot specialist until there is gangrene, wound, nerve damage or pus formation and this is the sad part among patients," she notes.

CAN DIABETIC FOOT WOUND HEAL?

A new technique, called Amit Jain's offloading system, which was published in Diabetic Foot Journal, is now used extensively at Brindavvan Areion Hospital, as it is effective in healing the wound and also allows patients to do their house work.

"This scientific technique has helped more than 80% of the neuropathic wound heal by 8 to 10 weeks and it is popularly used in most patients who come from different parts of the state to get their foot wounds healed by us"

Dr Amit Jain,
Senior Diabetic Foot Surgeon, Amit Jain's Institute of Diabetic Foot & Wound Care, Brindhavvan Areion Hospital, Chamarajpet, Bengaluru

"By doing certain investigations, it is possible to prevent complications in future. Amit Jain's Linear Foot Test is an excellent and effective screening tool for diabetic foot and through this screening method, we can either prevent or postpone the complications especially if patients had good compliance. Most of the test on foot are done based on international recommendations"

STRAWS IN THE WIND

Trending search: the Vellfire

There has been a lot of curiosity about former chief minister BS Yediyurappa's brand new white Toyota Vellfire, costing Rs 1.12 crore. There has also been a lot of curiosity about Yediyurappa, who resigned recently, and many gathered to see both him and the Vellfire. The car, which looks like an oversized Innova Crysta or Fortuner, is said to be extremely comfortable since it is a completely 'phoren' car which is only assembled here, and not 'made in India'. Public curiosity is evident, with Google searches for Toyota Vellfire peaking. This, ever since Yediyurappa became the proud owner.

Nanjangud MLA B Harshavardhan presents CM Basavaraj Bommai with a plaque

Wearing heart on sleeve, and putting goal on Twitter

Political circles know Nanjangud MLA B Harshavardhan as the son-in-law of former Union minister and Chamarajanagar LS member V Srinivasa Prasad, but not many know that he is also the grandson of former Karnataka minister B Basavalingappa. The young Harsha, it seems, took the opportunity to introduce himself as his grandfather's grandson, and also got citations done to commemorate 50 years of Basavalingappa abolishing the carrying of night soil by the community. He presented the first citation to Prasad, went to the national capital and gave them to BJP bigwigs, including Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Karnataka in-charge Arun Singh and Union minister Pralhad Joshi. Later, he gave one to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. This begs the question: Is Harsha eyeing a cabinet berth? There is also a buzz over his recent tweet, along with the clipping of a regional paper's article, "Development of Nanjangud is my priority, regardless of my position. Ministership will come (Sic)".

Bommai makes mark as good administrator

Completing one month in office, CM looks in control of his government; likely to face challenges ahead

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AS Karnataka prepares for the challenge of the Covid-19 third wave, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai completes his critical first month in office, earning accolades from supporters for his good administration and no-nonsense manner of functioning.

Bommai, who replaced B S Yediyurappa in late July, won over people with his social welfare measures, announcing scholarships for farmers' children, funds for the deprived classes and women self-help groups. Many legislators and friends greeted him on his 30 days in office, but the Chief Minister, who has about 19 months left of his tenure, is likely to face a number of challenges.

He is yet to prove his mettle on the floor of the assembly and council, and will have to face a belligerent opposition in the upcoming assembly session from September 13 to 24. Having held the law and parliamentary affairs portfolio until recently, it will be a test of his political acumen, as he seeks to ensure that the government holds its ground.

The BJP has managed the Upper House numbers, having struck an understanding with the JDS and appointing JDS legislator Basavaraj Horatti as chairman. In the assembly, the party will have to come up with a strategy to counter the Congress.

Dissidence may have subsided visibly, but continues to dog Bommai, with two legislators sulking over their ministries -- Anand Singh and MTB Nagaraj have made their unhappiness clear, while former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi has been left out in the cold. Party insiders admit that murmurs of dissent have not died down yet. Bommai still has to accommodate four ministers, while there are more than 20 aspirants. Yediyurappa will be looking to accommodate his son B Y Vijayendra, and Bommai will have to do a bit of tightrope walking as he does the bidding of the BJP high command, but keeps everyone happy.

He also has many water resource related conficts to sort out, like Kalasa-Banduri, Yettinahole, Mekedatu and Upper Krishna, which have remained emotional issues. Experts point out that Bommai was water resources minister for five years during the BJP government in 2008-2013, and is likely to be equipped with the expertise to handle it.

ACHIEVEMENTS

1. Announces Rs 1,000 crore as special stipend to children of farmers, revises existing schemes, including pension for widows
2. Amrith schemes to mark 75 years of independence
3. Has managed to keep the BJP flock together

FAILURES

1. Mysuru gang-rape, similar crimes in the past raise questions of law and order in the state

MYSURU GANGRAPE

Not a first, accused regularly targeted couples

Mysuru artists Rahul and Sumanth Gowda paint a wall with a message demanding stricter punishment to those who commit heinous crimes like rape, in Mysuru on Sunday | UDAYSHANKAR S

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

FIVE accused, arrested for the alleged gangrape of a girl student at the foothills of Chamundi on August 24 evening, revealed to the Mysuru police that they regularly targeted couples, lonely women and others moving around Lalithadripura area. They assaulted men, molested women and took away their valuables. They had become fearless and proceeded to gangrape the girl as none of the couples they targeted earlier had filed police complaints.

Four police teams, which consisted of men who could converse in Tamil, conducted an 11-hour operation at Susipuram in Talavadi district and Tiruppur in Tamil Nadu before arresting them.

The accused were produced before the third JMFC court judge, who remanded them under police custody.

During the interrogation, they told the police that seven of them were involved in the crime. The Mysuru police are still camping at Tiruppur and other locations looking for two more accused. One of them is involved in a sandalwood theft in Mysuru, while the other is wanted for a murder in Erode district.

Police personnel inspect the scene of crime in Mysuru | UDAYSHANKAR S

The police, who are interrogating the five at an undisclosed location, found out that they not only visited Mysuru for pleasure but also to make away with valuables, like cellphones, jewellery and cash from couples moving around motorbikes near Chamundi Hills. It is said that one of the accused had the habit of molesting women, while others took away the valuables.

The gang regularly bought liquor at the APMC yard in Bandipalya and then reached the foothills of Chamundi looking for targets. They also admitted to committing robberies on the ring road.

They told the police that in the gangrape case too, they were certain that the girl would not file a complaint like their earlier victims. But the girl's friend and his parents informed the police and got the medico-legal case registered.

A team of experts has arrived in Mysuru to conduct a medical examination and collect samples of the accused at the Forensic Lab in Karnataka Police Academy.

The victim, who has gone back to Mumbai with her parents, is yet to come out of shock and give a statement to the police, which has to be mandatorily produced before the court. The police, who have registered an FIR based on a statement given by her friend, hope that she will cooperate once she is stable. The FSL team, based on the medical check-up carried out at a private hospital, has also collected DNA samples.

The investigative team is likely to take the accused to the crime scene at Lalithadripura in Alanahalli police limits on Monday.

Though a lot of people, especially girls, are visiting the spot where the gangrape took place, the police are trying to avoid crowds at the spot.

City-based artists Rahul and Sumanth Gowda on Sunday painted graffiti on Dewan's road in Devaraja Mohalla warning people about heinous crimes like rape. They demanded that the accused be hanged.

STEP UP POLICING, DG&IGP TELLS MYSURU COPS

MYSURU: The Mysuru police, that has come under severe criticism in the aftermath of the gangrape of a 23-year-old student and the shootout at a jewellery shop that killed a youth, has decided to step up policing in the district. Karnataka DG&IGP Praveen Sood, who has been camping in the city for the last three days, held a meeting with senior district police officers and directed them to maintain law and order. Applauding the police for solving both the cases by arresting the accused from neighbouring states, Sood said that the police should keep a check on anti-social elements and enhance security in the foothills of Chamundi Hills, ring road and other secluded spots. Sood, who had earlier served as the Mysuru City Police Commissioner, directed the police to build the gangrape case with strong evidence to ensure that the accused are convicted for life. He said such incidents should not occur in Mysuru in the future. ADGP Pratap Reddy, IG Madhukar Pawar, Police Commissioner Chandra Gupta, SP Chetan and others were present. ENS

'It is responsibility of govt to ensure safety and security 24/7'

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

HOME Minister Araga Jnanendra, who was severely criticised by opposition parties for being a novice to take up an important job, is upbeat after the police cracked the sensational Mysuru gangrape case within four days. Answering his critics, he said that he has been in public life for the last four decades and been part of many important legislative committees. Excerpts...

The Mysuru gangrape case was a black mark and shook the nation's conscience. What do you have to say about the police performance?
Students and travellers from all over the country and world visit the heritage city of Mysuru. We have a great responsibility in maintaining the peace and tranquility as well as the reputation of this city. The state police have done a commendable job by cracking the case swiftly. It is the state's responsibility to its citizens to ensure safety and security 24/7.

Former CM HD Kumaraswamy has said that there is corruption in the police department and policemen come across as unprofessional and crude...
Things have changed for the better now. Highly educated people, even those with post-graduation and PhDs, are joining the department. As there is a quota, a number of women too are becoming part of the force which has helped in improving the department's image. On charges of corruption, the police are now being made to work transparently. The filing of complaints has been computerised and people coming to police stations do not have to wait for acknowledgments. Transfers have been rationalised and are being governed by the Police Establishment Board. I have warned the police personnel that anyone associated with illegal organisations and the underworld will be dealt with seriously.

You seem to be upbeat after the Mysuru police cracked the gangrape case within four days...
Yes. In the absence of a statement from the victim, the police stitched together available technical and other evidence and hunted down the culprits.

Congress has said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai should have appointed someone with more experience as home minister...
I am not a newcomer and have been in public life for the last four decades. This is my fourth term in the Assembly. I have worked in several legislative committees, including the all-important Public Accounts Committee. I feel sorry for their ignorance. Congress leaders were trying to draw political mileage out of the unfortunate incident in Mysuru. Soon after I came to know of the incident, I rushed to Mysuru and was constantly monitoring the progress of the probe till the police zeroed in on the suspects.

There have been suggestions to involve citizens in policing. Do you have any plans?
We have taken several measures to involve more people in the functioning of the police. There have been recommendations from the Police Reforms Commission, National Law Commission and the Supreme Court. We will encourage community policing.

Arun Singh on four-day visit to state from today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AHEAD of a series of elections due in Karnataka this year, BJP national general secretary and Karnataka in-charge Arun Singh will tour the state for four days starting August 30.

While polls to taluk and zilla panchayats are likely to be held end of this year or early next year, elections to 25 MLC seats are to be held in January 2022. Also, elections to Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike are likely to be conducted by this year-end.

According to a press release from the BJP, Singh will reach Bengaluru on Monday. On Tuesday, he will chair a district-level core committee meeting in Mysuru in which office-bearers of Mysuru, Mysuru rural and Chamarajanagar units of the party and other mandal presidents will be present. He will also visit the Chamundeshwari temple atop the Chamundi Hills.

The panchayat members play a crucial role in electing members to the Upper House of the state legislature and Singh interacting with the office-bearers is an attempt to strengthen the party at the grassroots level, say party insiders.

On Wednesday, Singh will attend a similar meeting with office-bearers of Hassan and Mandya districts at Channarayapatna in Hassan district. Followed by this, he will be meeting office-bearers of Bengaluru South, North and Central units of the party. On the same day he will be heading to Hubballi and is expected to attend Union Minister Pralhad Joshi's daughter's wedding. On September 3, he will be leaving for Delhi, the release added.

CM to meet experts on Ganesha Chaturthi curbs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai has convened a meeting with Covid-19 expert committee members to discuss various issues, including the ensuing Ganesha Chaturthi festivities, on Monday.

The State Government has banned public celebrations of the festival by setting up pandals and taking out processions owing to the prevailing Covid-19 pandemic. However, Bommai has been under pressure from several quarters to relax norms for Ganesha Chaturthi. Recently, Yatnal had said that if the State Government imposes Covid-19 restrictions on Ganesha Chaturthi, he will defy them. Now, senior Congress leader RV Deshpande, too, has said that thousands of people depend on the festival to make their ends meet. "If restrictions are imposed, they will face huge losses," the former minister said.

It can be recalled that DR M K Sudarshan, Chairman, Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee, had recommended stricter measures in districts with more than 2% positivity rate. "We cannot allow festivals, fairs, darshans, pujas and public congregations of any sort. People can celebrate within their homes," he had said.

The decision, however, no rests with Bommai, who will take a final call on Monday and will likely issue fresh guidelines.

Min visits rape, murder victim's kin in Tumakuru

TUMAKURU: District Minister JC Madhuswamy visited the kin of a rape and murder victim at Chikkahalli village along with DC YS Patil and SP Rahul Kumar Shahapurwad on Sunday. The case is yet to be solved, while over 50 police personnel have searched several villages around the spot of the crime. It is said that they have got some clues and have questioned some suspects. The residents suspect the involvement of a godman, who has shifted from the area after the incident on August 24. They said that the elderly man entertained strangers and supplied them with drugs. Some five months ago, a pervert had flashed before the victim and the police are still searching for him. ENS

The changing rainfall and weather pattern in Kodagu district is affecting coffee plantations, especially the Arabica variety. While the price of Arabica coffee has increased in the international market, many planters of Kodagu are reluctant to maintain this crop due to the challenges that have cropped up following the changing weather patterns.

NCB nabs three, seizes 3,400 kg of marijuana

The three accused with the recovered haul of marijuana | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a joint operation on Saturday, NCB teams from the Bangalore and Hyderabad Zones busted an interstate drug trafficking nexus, arresting three suspects and seizing 3,400 kg of high-grade marijuana in 141 gunny bags. The accused have been identified as D Shinde, MR Kamble, and N Jogdand, all hailing from Latur district in Maharashtra. They were allegedly caught transporting the contraband in a truck.

A senior officer said that the team was tipped off about the transportation of the drug, and it swung into action seizing the truck (of Maharashtra registration), and nabbing the three accused on the Hyderabad Ring Road. The vehicle was carrying the consignment from the Andhra-Odisha border and heading towards Maharashtra via Hyderabad and Bengaluru.

A thorough search revealed 3,400 kg of marijuana that was packed in 141 gunny bags, hidden in the truck. The bags were concealed under tarpaulin sheets and further covered by a large quantity of nursery saplings. The investigation has found that the kingpin handling the consignment is based in Maharashtra. He had sourced the marijuana to be supplied to several drug syndicates in Pune, Mumbai, and Thane districts in Maharashtra, and other states. These syndicates peddle the contraband at colleges, parties, and among private individuals through an elaborate ground network.

"Since 2020, a total of 1,971 kg of marijuana was seized, resulting in the arrest of eight people. This year, by the end of August 2021, over 7,500 kg has been recovered by the NCB, Bangalore Zone, resulting in the arrest of 25 people," the officer said.

Illegal ganja (marijuana) cultivation in India is largely concentrated around the Naxal-affected Andhra-Odisha border areas. Ganja from here finds its way all over the country, and is also smuggled to Sri Lanka.

Puttur temple bars non-Hindus from parking, courts controversy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

PUTTUR Mahalingeshwara Temple, which is under the Muzrai Department, has invited criticism after it prohibited non-Hindus from using a paddy field on its premises as the parking space. The temple authorities have put up a notice board, stating that action will be taken if non-Hindus park their vehicles in the area.

Keshav Prasad Muliya, president of the temple, said there is no boundary line as such to the field.

"The decision has been taken by the temple committee. The Muzrai Department has been given the authority to take care of the premises. If anyone comes with a request for parking, we will consider it. The decision is also to prevent any unwanted incidents on the temple premises," Muliya tried to justify.

The notice put up by the Puttur Mahalingeshwara temple authorities

Senior Congress leader and former MLA Shakuntala Shetty said the decision of the temple committee is wrong. "People belonging to different faiths pray to Mahalingeshwara and visit the temple. This action was not required. The town does not have enough parking space, and people going to banks, markets and other places used to park their vehicles in the field, " she added.

Dakshina Kannada Deputy Commissioner Dr Rajendra KV told The New Indian Express that he will verify the issue.

The notice, put up by the temple authorities, states that the temple comes under the Muzrai Department and only the temple devotees will be allowed to park their vehicles on the field.

Ten days ago, Bajrang Dal, Hindu Jagarana Vedike and other pro-Hindu organisations had demanded that non-Hindus be banned from using the parking space.

GUTKA PROBE LEADS TN COPS TO POCSO CASE, SHOPKEEPER HELD

48-year-old sexually assaulted five minor girls over seven years, recorded the acts

SAHAYA NOVINSTON LOBO
@ Chennai

A 48-year-old shopkeeper, held for selling gutka, was charged under several sections of the POCSO Act after police found videos of him sexually assaulting children on his mobile phone.

According to police, the man has sexually assaulted at least five minor girls over seven years and recorded the acts. Apart from the accused, identified as one Perumal, two sisters, aged 30 and 28, were also arrested under the POCSO Act. Police said the women allowed Perumal to sexually assault their daughters for money. The women have one daughter each.

According to sources, Perumal's shop was searched by the T P Chatram all-women police on Saturday after they received information he was selling gutka. The police team, led by Inspector E Rajeswari, found a few sachets of gutkha in the shop and seized his phone to find the contacts of his suppliers. It was then that they found the videos. "There were at least 50 videos on his cellphone," said an investigating officer.

Though the team initially thought he might have downloaded the videos from the internet, a closer examination revealed that the man in some of the videos was Perumal himself and the victims were minor girls. Two women were also seen in the videos; police later found that they were the mothers of two of the children being assaulted by Perumaal.

Quoting the confession statements of the trio, police said the two sisters, who visited Perumal's shop often, developed an extramarital affair with him. "He claims the girls were sent by their mothers to please him so he did not charge them for the items purchased. The assault took place in the houses of the two women and in their presence," said Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP-Kilpauk) K Ramesh. Police said they have identified at least three other children assaulted by Perumal.

Visakhapatnam is AP's capital, says Centre

ENS @Vijayawada

VISAKHAPATNAM is the Capital of Andhra Pradesh. The Centre, in a reply to a question in the recently held Lok Sabha session, made a mention of Vizag (Visakhapatnam) as the capital of the State. This comes even as the issue of making Visakhapatnam as the executive capital is still pending in the courts.

Union Minister of Petroleum and Natural Gas Hardeep Singh Puri, replying to an starred question in the Lok Sabha on July 26, acknowledged Visakhapatnam as the capital of the State instead of Amaravati.

The question pertains to whether the Petroleum ministry had assessed the impact of fuel price hikes on the country's economic recovery from the Covid-19 pandemic and the amount of taxes, cesses and excise duty collected by the Centre on petrol and diesel and others. The question was raised by Congress MPs K Sudhakaran (from Kerala) and Pradyut Bordoloi (Assam).

In the reply, the ministry gave an annexure on the ₹state-wise break up of variation in State Levies and Taxes,' where the capital of Andhra Pradesh was mentioned as Vizag.

'Breakthrough infections not alarming in Kerala'

Kochi: The Centre has sounded the alarm over the high number of breakthrough infections reported in Kerala. According to a Union Ministry report last week, 46% of around 87,000 breakthrough cases reported in India were in the state. Though the numbers paint a scary picture, health experts opine that the situation does not call for panic. The purpose of vaccination is reduction in the severity of infection, they say. Owing to a robust vaccination drive, the number of hospital admissions has come down.

Vaccinate Afghans entering Tamil Nadu against polio, health dept tells officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

THE Directorate of Public Health instructed deputy directors of health services to keep track of all inbound travellers from Afghanistan to Tamil Nadu, and make necessary arrangements to vaccinate them against polio, as the disease is still endemic in their country.

In a letter to officials dated August 27, Director of Public Health (DPH) Dr TS Selvavinayagam said, "Travellers from Afghanistan irrespective of their age group should be vaccinated with one dose of oral polio vaccine and fractional dose of inactivated polio vaccine (IPV) at all ports of entry, air, railway, sea and road."

The officials also should send daily reports by 5 pm to the DPH. "In the present context, India and all States are facing a surge of inbound travellers from Afghanistan. In order to protect the country from polio importation, the country has put in place polio vaccination for international travellers coming to India from polio-endemic countries," the DPH said in his communication to the officials.

India has been polio-free for more than 10 years and Tamil Nadu for 17 years. The South Asia Region including India was declared polio-free on March 27,2014, he said.

Cop transferred for wrongly accusing, shaming man, daughter

T'Puram: The woman senior police officer, who misbehaved with a 38-year-old man and his eight-year-old daughter on Friday evening near Attingal, was transferred out of the pink patrol force and posted to Kollam for 15-days behavioural training. Southwest monsoon active, TS may receive heavy rain for 2 days

Yellow alert in nine districts of Kerala today

T'Puram : After two days of intensity, the strength of rain in the state is likely to reduce in the coming days. EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

AS the southwest monsoon is active and vigorous, various parts parts of Telangana are likely to receive heavy rainfall in the next two days.

According to weather updates issued on Sunday by the India Meteorological Department (IMD), Nizamabad, Medak, Kamareddy, Kumarambheem-Asifabad and Bhadradri-Kothagudem districts and other parts of the State are very likely to receive heavy rainfall on Monday and Tuesday.

Prevailing weather conditions are attributed to the low-pressure area over northwest and adjoining westcentral Bay of Bengal off south Odisha and north Andhra Pradesh coasts with the associated cyclonic circulation extending upto 4.5 km above sea level. It is expected to move west-northwestwards across west and central India during next four days.

On Sunday, several parts of the State, including Nalgonda, Vikarabad, Siddipet, Suryapet and Nizamabad districts, recorded moderate rains.

Till 6 pm, Chandur in Nalgonda registered highest rainfall of 61.8 mm. Hyderabad too witnessed light to moderate rainfall in Bandlaguda, Gandipet, Shaikpet, Golconda, Rajendranagar and Serilingimpally.

During the last 24 hours, highest rainfall of 110.4 mm was recorded at Sirpur (Kumarambheem). CHANGING RAIN PATTERN HITS ARABICA CROP IN KODAGU

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

THE changing rainfall and weather pattern in Kodagu is affecting the coffee plantations - especially the Arabica variety. While the price of Arabica coffee has increased in the international market, many planters of Kodagu are reluctant to maintain this variety of the crop due to the challenges that have cropped up following the changing weather patterns.

"Coffee growers in the district have faced immense losses since the past three years. The Arabica variety of coffee has become unmanageable and a small coffee grower cannot sustain this crop anymore," shared K Subbaiah, a coffee grower in Chettalli.

He had grown Arabica varieties of plants across eight acres of land and he explained, "I had taken up inter-cropping of Arabica and Robusta varieties across 11 acres of land. However, I have removed all the Arabica bushes on nearly eight acres of my estate now as I am unable to sustain these crops." He shared that untimely rain has resulted in the Arabica crops yielding beans way before the picking period.

"The coffee beans have ripened during August. How can one pick these beans in the rain and where can we dry these beans?" he questioned. The Arabica variety normally bore ripe beans in the month of September and they were usually picked during November. However, the changing rain pattern has immensely affected the crop and akin Subbaiah, many small coffee growers are shunning the Arabica crop following immense losses, despite the price hike in the international market.

Former vice president of Coffee Board Dr Kaverappa shared that the Arabica variety is increasingly prone to black rot disease, affecting the yield. "Arabica variety is increasingly found in the North Kodagu belt. However, untimely rains and floods have affected the crops. While there is an immense shortage of Arabica beans and demand for the same has increased in the international market, the production of Arabica variety is less in the district due to the challenges faced by the growers in marinating these varieties," he explained.

He hoped for the government's support to the coffee sector and said that insurance to coffee crops and reintroduction of subsidies to the machinery must be enabled to promote and support the sector.

PUNJAB CONGRESS WRACKED BY SELF-MADE MESS

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi spoke too soon the other day when he cited his Punjab unit as a successful model for defusing intra-party bickering. Till the Gandhis meddled in Punjab's affairs, CM Amarinder Singh seemed certain of defeating anti-incumbency and getting a fresh mandate as he was its most charismatic leader there. It was the CM's nimble statecraft that gave discomfort to the high command, as it imposed Navjot Singh Sidhu as the state party president, letting him question Amarinder's decisions publicly and reducing him to a caricature. The sagacity the party recently showed over Chhattisgarh in dealing with the ambitions of T S Singh Deo, who had been promised rotational chief ministership two-and-a-half years ago, was sorely missing in Punjab. As a result, retaining power in Punjab, where the party has a whopping 80 seats in a House of 117, is no longer certain. Both factions are working at cross-purposes, parading their mutual strengths and claiming no-confidence in each other. If Nagaland produced a constitutional wonder a few weeks ago with zero opposition by having all lawmakers on the treasury benches, Punjab is its opposite as the fractured Congress is its own opposition, though not on paper. Fears of denial of ticket and/or poll-time sabotage are already afloat, given that the Assembly elections are due in six months.

Sidhu's choice of a couple of aides became an embarrassment due to their mindless statements on J&K and Pakistan. It prompted the party's exasperated manager Harish Rawat to direct their sacking, drawing an angry retort from Sidhu that bordered on imprudence and a warning to the high command. His criticism of Amarinder may be valid on many counts, like the inaction on the sacrilege issue, which has been interpreted as being protective of the Badals. But what ought to be thrashed out within the party is being discussed openly, muddling the public messaging.

Unlike regional party heads aspiring for prime ministership, the Congress finds itself under test more frequently in state polls due to its pan-India presence. If it were to lose Punjab, Rahul's chances of inspiring trust to lead the opposition against the Centre and eventually the government would suffer a body blow.

THE EV RACE AMONG STATES

Odisha on Friday announced its Electric Vehicle (EV) Policy and became the 10th state in India to roll out policy guidelines to make the transition from conventional fossil fuel-based mobility to electric mode. Its EV Policy includes subsidy, interest subvention, incentives for manufacturers and battery production, among others. Jharkhand too unveiled its draft EV Policy before a host of automakers in Delhi as it sought to lure in manufacturers to an auto-cluster it is planning.

The race among states is a good sign as India fervently seeks to cut down on its fossil fuel consumption. About 80% of its oil imports are to meet transport sector needs. It is also mandated to reduce greenhouse gases emissions by around 35% of 2005 levels in another nine years to meet global climate goals. For a 1.3 billion population, the deadlines and targets are stiff and the current state of EV use is nascent compared to the global scenario. Despite the economic downturn caused by the pandemic, EV sales showed an encouraging growth last year, with Europe recording 1.4 million registrations, followed by 1.2 million in China and 295 thousand in the US.

India, by the middle of July, clocked 1.04 lakh EV sales in the current fiscal whereas in the last 3.5 years, the total registrations were 5.17 lakh. But it stands at the cusp of a revolution if it pushes EVs seriously. Between 2001 and 2017, vehicle ownership in the country rose over three-fold. Close to 80% of vehicles in India currently are two-wheelers. This is the segment that will drive the change and it must be tapped. The Centre has extended its Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Hybrid and Electric Vehicles scheme till 2024, with a total budgetary outlay of ₹10,000 crore. The government's support to manufacturing, R&D, subsidy and scrapping apart, it must show intent by investing robustly in battery manufacturing and charging infrastructure, which is very negligible at present. It must also adopt EVs in the public transport system in a big way. Central and state governments must lead by inducting EVs for office use. That would send a clear signal to the people that it takes the EV business seriously.

Some seek to use such tragedies not for the cause of oneness, but to generate the poison of hatred that led to those horrors

REMEMBERING PARTITION HORRORS & DIVISIVE AGENDAS

KAPIL SIBAL

Senior lawyer, Congress leader and member of Rajya Sabha

AMIT BANDRE

The prime minister reminded us of the struggles and sacrifices of our people to usher in the freedoms we celebrate today. He also exhorted people to remember August 14 as 'Partition Horrors Remembrance Day'. This day also happens to coincide with Pakistan's Independence Day. His message was loud and clear: That we cannot forget the mass sufferings at the time of Partition when millions were displaced and lakhs lost their lives to mindless acts of hatred and violence. He rightly reminded us all to remove the poison of social division and disharmony and to further strengthen the spirit of oneness, social harmony and human empowerment.

I am truly touched by the concern of Prime Minister Modi for propagating the values of oneness and social harmony. India is a cauldron of diversity. It is home to many races, religions, beliefs and traditions. Its kaleidoscopic cultures can thrive only when there is societal harmony. But what we have been witnessing of late is that both the government and BJP are espousing the rise of a hegemonic mindset instead of preserving our linguistic, cultural and religious diversity. This is demonstrated by the track record of the Modi regime since 2014. Vivid in our minds are the images of outrageous acts of communal persecution of common people forcing many to say and do things that no civilised culture would endorse. The marginalised were lynched in public view, their sin being their vocation. Rampant and senseless vandalism is openly perpetrated but seldom investigated. Information has it that, in a particular state in the last four years, there is one encounter every tenth day involving those facing trial in criminal cases. These are all matters of public record. The campaign against 'love jihad' instilled fear in the minds of young couples belonging to different religious faiths for having chosen to marry as an expression of their free will. What was allowed space to flourish in Modi's India was not oneness but bigotry; not social harmony but intolerance. No turn of phrase can hide that reality.

Migration of millions during Partition and the senseless violence that ensued is perhaps one of the biggest tragedies of the 20th century. Shattered lives and livelihoods left behind wounds that have not healed till date. The aftermath of lives lost in tragic circumstances, homes abandoned, millions displaced, not only numbed those who were victims of these tragedies but also the young and old who witnessed the unleashing of senseless violence. This monumental tragedy was suffered by those living on both sides of the divide. The hurt lives on from generation to generation.

Those living today with those memories choose to either carry with them the anger and hatred for having lost their loved ones or silently deal with it, internalising the pain. No rational human being can ever justify such inhuman acts of violence. I too lost my maternal grandparents during Partition, who I have never seen, since I was born in 1948. I can either carry in my mind that hatred for those unknown to me who committed such acts or leave it as a tragedy of which our family was a victim. If I seek to avenge that loss, who do I target? Not individuals but mindsets that pander to seeking revenge by violent acts. Reason informs me not to point a finger at those living in India today and seek revenge for an act of violence of which they have no knowledge and are in no way responsible for. If I do avenge that act of personal tragedy, I would be doing injustice to those who may be targeted by me for no fault of theirs. Then why should I remember the 'horror' that the prime minister talked about? Why would I seek to resurrect in my mind my personal tragedy and seek to hold the innocent guilty of acts of those not known to them? This logic equally applies to those living across the border, who too would have lost their loved ones in similar fashion. I cannot compound my tragedy by spreading the poison of hatred that in turn will have tragic consequences.

> The Talibanisation of the mind is the enemy of both oneness and social harmony. The use of violence by the Taliban in targeting alleged collaborators of the erstwhile regime has spread fear amongst Afghans. ... It is in this context that I feel dismayed that the PM wants us, every year, to remember August 14 as 'Partition Horrors Remembrance Day'

The cause of oneness will best be served if we are able to learn from that tragedy and embrace what the prime minister talked about. We need not do that by observing August 14 as 'Partition Horrors Remembrance Day'. We also need not remember those horrors and tragedies. We cannot forget that in the midst of the dance of senseless violence, the Mahatma was assassinated. That mindset still continues with some garlanding the statue of he who killed Gandhiji. Instead, we need to shun all attempts to cater to divisive agendas. Some seek to use such horrors and tragedies not for the cause of oneness, but to generate the poison of hatred that led to those horrors. That may be electorally convenient but subversive to the cause of oneness. We need to practice tolerance and treat each brother and sister living in India as one, who rightfully also belongs here. We don't need to politicise tragedies. We need to internalise pain for the well-being of our people. We need to seek peace and learn from the past.

The Talibanisation of the mind is the enemy of both oneness and social harmony. We are seeing this in the takeover of Kabul and the tragedy unfolding before our eyes. The use of violence by the Taliban in targeting alleged collaborators of the erstwhile regime has spread fear amongst Afghans. This is to ensure that its diktats are obeyed. It is the regimentation of the mind that sows the seeds of disharmony. That is the real enemy.

It is in this context that I feel dismayed that the prime minister wants us, every year, to remember August 14 as 'Partition Horrors Remembrance Day'. I wish those of us who have lost their loved ones, remember them and resolve that oneness lies not in reliving the past but by embracing a future in which we live and let live.

BIRTH NARRATIVES OF KRISHNA IN SCULPTURES

RH KULKARNI

Professor, Department of Art History, College of Fine Arts, Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath

The birth of Krishna is an important episode that Indian artists have delineated in sculptures and paintings. There are many stories connected with the incarnation of Vishnu as Krishna. The Vishnu Purana and Bhagavata Purana have lengthy descriptions of the story of his birth.

As a young boy, Krishna spent his days in Gokula–Vrindavan on the banks of river Yamuna, where he performed heroic deeds and miracles. Indian artists from ancient lore to contemporary periods have depicted the form of Krishna with love and reverence. He has been the hero of many devotees and praised by poets of varied genres. Jayadeva's Geeta Govinda showcases Krishna as the Almighty. The Hari Dasas praise Krishna as the Vishnu on earth who will save them and also give salvation. In Bhagavad-Gita, Krishna gives his famous discourse to Arjuna. Krishna is omnipresent in all aspects of life—friend, beloved, son, brother and philosopher.

Indian artists have delineated the birth narratives of Krishna in imaginative ways. Right from the Badami Chalukya period to the Vijayanagara era, sculptural narratives have appeared on cave and structural temples. There are many instances and records that give clues about the date of the Mahabharata and which also corroborate the birth events of Krishna. The Aihole Ravikirti Prashasti, dated 634 CE in the time of Chalukya Emperor Pulakeshi II, speaks about the completion year of the Mahabharata War. This suggests the date of Mahabharata and presumably, the life of Krishna along with the contemporary events of Pandavas and Kauravas.

Badami Cave 2 and 3 are probably the first monuments in the whole of southern India where the birth narratives of Krishna are depicted. The Bhagavata Purana speaks about Krishna as a Yadava veera born to Vasudeva and Devaki, the younger sister of Kamsa. Krishna's birth as narrated in Puranic literature has been followed in visual narratives. In Cave 2 in Badami (c. 570-75 CE), the birth is followed by transportation of the child to Gokula and then the Putana Vadha and Shakatasura Vadha. What is important is the depiction of the theme in a very naturalistic manner. Devaki is shown reclining on a cot with Krishna, like any mother with her baby. The subsequent episodes are shown in a compact and episodic way.

In the post-Chalukya period, the Hoysala artists were imaginative in depictions of the narratives of Krishna katha. In the Amruteshwara temple in Amruthapura (in present-day Chikkamagaluru district of Karnataka) built in 1196 CE during the reign of Veera Ballala II, Krishna's birth episodes are realistic and also follow the textual sources.

The Amruthapura narratives are framed in a square space. The northern wall of the temple has the Bhagavata and Mahabharata narratives. The first panel in the Bhagavata narrative (which goes from right to left) shows Kamsa. The next one depicts Devaki expecting her eighth child. In the subsequent panel, Vasudeva bows down to a donkey and requests it not to make any sound in the night, as he plans to shift the child to Gokula. Then, episodes like Krishna killing Dhenukasura, Yamalarjuna Vijaya, Kalinga Damana and Krishna Govardhana are depicted. The episodes in the temple are unique and they also have a direct mode of depiction with minimum figures, where the characters are shown as part of the melodrama.

The Somanathapura Keshava temple (1258-68 CE) in Mysore district, another Hoysala monument, too has some other interesting episodes. Young Krishna is being taken by Vasudeva to Gokula and has to cross River Yamuna. It was a dark night with heavy rains. The serpent Adishesha provides shade and protects the newly born Krishna. The five-hooded Adisesha and the way the child is carried are depicted realistically. The child is handed over to Yashodha in Gokula, which is depicted through the cows. Hoysala artists were imaginative in portraying the subjects like live images. The composition of the figures and creating a realistic ambience was something that they developed as part of the narrative method.

While Krishna is depicted as a young hero, he is also seen as a philosopher and guide in the Mahabharata. The Krishna incarnation's most important episode was the Geetopadesha. A rare and unique depiction of this episode is seen in the Halebid Hoysaleshwara temple narrative sculptures as part of the Mahabharata story. Bhagavad-Gita as a treatise of ethics, morals, bhakti, karma and surrender has been subject of the culmination of Indian moksha-sadhana. Vishnu's incarnation on earth as Krishna is regarded as a guide to humanity. This is a tribute to the Lord on Janmashtami through visual narratives.

Aiming for gold next time

Bhavina Patel has scripted history by winning silver in the Paralympics table tennis event by defeating players ranked number 2, 3, 8 and 9 globally. Her dedication and devotion will take her to the zenith. If she continues to work hard, she will surely win the gold next time.

PP Sahadevan, Nileshwar

Motivation for others

Bhavina Patel's win on Sunday was impressive. She did her best and managed to snag a silver medal. The 34-year-old's win has provided Indian para-athletes with the motivation and incentive to win more. The nation has pinned its hopes for gold on her and our other para-athletes in future games.

Need experts at the helm

For one, the Indian government invested hundreds of crores in Afghanistan without anticipating its political instability. It is now struggling to just bring its own citizens back. For another, it started selling away public enterprises in the name of monetisation to fill its deficit budget. Our government seems to be clueless about the economy and foreign policy. It may be better to have learned experts in these fields as the heads to bring India out of its current crisis.

Rules to appoint judges

This is with reference to Concerns over judicial appointments (Aug 29). The modern socio-political system has evolved with prescribed rules for operational processes to run the institutions. The crisis the citizenry comes across every time in the appointment of judges in the Supreme Court is due to the absence of any such prescribed rule. It is high time the nation comes out with certain justified norms based on relative criteria for the appointment of judges in the apex court.

A M Chakravarty, Hyderabad

From frying pan to fire

All stakeholders would be aware that the selection of judges through the Collegium process suffers from the lack of democratic legitimacy and needs more openness. But leaving the right to the political authority would be jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

Lack of freedom & privacy

This is with reference to Why I am not jealous of Ambani (Aug 29). The author has rightly pointed out the lack of freedom and privacy associated with superfluous wealth or political status. Uneasy lies the head that puts the crown on and it is pointless for the lesser-privileged to feel queasy about it. All said and done, the Ambanis, Adanis, Tatas, Birlas and other industrialists contribute their best to the national economy, unmindful of their personal freedom and privacy. So feeling jealous of such people serves no meaningful purpose.

Haryana Deputy CM says IAS officer will face action

SDM under fire for 'break the heads' remark, lathicharge on farmers

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

HARYANA Deputy Chief Minister Dushyant Chautala on Sunday condemned the lathicharge by Haryana Police on protesting farmers at Bastara toll plaza near Karnal a day earlier, which left around 12 injured. He said action will be taken against the IAS officer behind the operation. Farmers from Punjab also blocked highways across the state for two hours to protest the lathicharge.

He was reacting to a viral video which purportedly shows Karnal SDM Ayush Sinha directing the police to 'break the heads' of farmers if they tried to break the barricade during the protest. Chautala said use of such words by an IAS officer is condemnable. "Action will be taken against him," he added.

"He (Sinha) said he did not sleep the last two days. He probably does not know that farmers also do not sleep 200 days a year," said Chautala.

The farmer protest in Punjab in support of their Haryana counterparys started at noon and caused inconvenience to commuters, who got stuck in traffic at several places. Jalandhar-Pathankot highway, Chandigarh-Ludhiana highway, Amritsar-Ganganagar highway and Ferozepur-Zira highway were blocked until 2 pm.

The Bharatiya Kisan Union (Ekta Ugrahan Group), the largest farmer union in the state, staged protests in 56 places across Punjab. Kisan Sangharsh Mazdoor Committee general secretary Sarwan Singh Pandher also condemned the lathicharge and demanded that Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar should resign on moral grounds as he has no right to continue after police action on the farmers.

Punjab Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu also condemned the action of the Haryana Police. Sharing a video of farmers being beaten up, Sidhu tweeted, "Deplorable assault on the protesting farmers is an attack on Fundamental Rights of every Indian...earned after innumerable sacrifices during the freedom struggle. It impinges and impedes on the spirit of the Constitution and Breaks the Backbone of India's democracy!!."

Rakesh Tikait of Bhratiya Kisan Union, a prominent face of the farmer stir, called the Haryana Police action an "act of the Taliban."

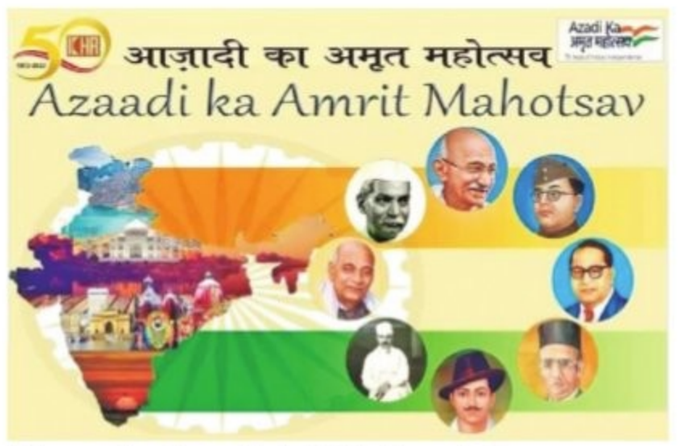
Row over omission of Nehru image

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

AFTER the exclusion of Jawaharlal Nehru's image from the poster of Azaadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebrations by the Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR) triggered a row, the government body on Sunday termed this an 'unnecessary' controversy and said other posters to be released in the coming days will feature pictures of India's first Prime Minister.

"We are not trying to undermine anyone's role in the movement...This is only one of the posters released as part of the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebrations. There will be several others and Nehru will be featured in them. Controversy around this is unnecessary," said a senior ICHR official.

ICHR, an autonomous body under the Union Ministry of Education, has been running a series of lectures and seminars on the theme of the Independence struggle as part of the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebrations.



ICHR poster without image of Jawaharlal Nehru has sparked a controversy

This is only one of the posters released as part of the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebrations. There will be several others and Nehru will be featured in them. Controversy is unnecessary —ICHR official

As part of the lecture series, the council has invited various historians and academicians to speak on different subjects related to India's freedom movement. Opposition parties had criticised the government for the exclusion of Nehru's image from the poster. They had also called the omission a 'deliberate' move.

Jairam Ramesh, Shashi Tharoor and Pawan Khera were among the Congress leaders, who took to social media and shared screenshots of the ICHR website showing photographs of Mahatma Gandhi, Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose, Bhagat Singh, BR Ambedkar, Sardar Vallabhai Patel, Rajendra Prasad, Madan Mohan Malviya and Veer Savarkar, while Nehru's picture was missing from the list.

Congress leader P Chidambaram on Sunday slammed ICHR, alleging that the member secretary of body had bowed to hate and prejudice by excluding Nehru. The former Union minister asked ICHR whether it would omit Henry Ford while celebrating the birth of the motor car or Wright brothers while celebrating the birth of aviation.

"ICHR Member-Secretary's explanation for the omission of Jawaharlal Nehru from the first digital poster to celebrate 75 years of Independence is ludicrous," Chidambaram said on Twitter.

Congress general secretary K C Venugopal was also vocal. "Petty politics once again! May I remind the ruling dispensation that any celebration of our nation's glorious freedom movement is ahistorical without the mention of the progressive and undeterred contributions of Nehruji. You may omit his name, but can never erase his ideas," he said.

Lord Ram is of everyone, in everyone: President

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

"LORD Ram is of everyone and Lord Ram is in everyone," this is how President Ram Nath Kovind summed up the relevance of Lord Ram, while inaugurating a conclave on Ramayana during his day-long visit to Ayodhya on Sunday.

President Kovind and First Lady Savita Kovind arrived in the temple town by a special presidential train from Lucknow in the morning. He was received by UP Governor Anandiben Patel and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

"Publicity of Ramayana is important because the inherent values of life it offers will always remain relevant for humanity. Along with philosophy, Ramayana also offers the model code of conduct that guides us in all aspects of our lives," said the President.

Emphasising the importance of Lord Ram in the context of the city, President Kovind wrote on Twitter, "The popularity of Ram Katha is not only in India but worldwide. There are many readable forms of Ramkatha, including Ramcharitmanas of Goswami Tulsidas in north India, Kritivas Ramayana in the eastern part, Kamban Ramayana in the south."

He added that there was neither discrimination in 'Ramraj', nor was there a law of punishment. "The lines of Ramcharitmanas give hope."

The President further said, "Without Ram, Ayodhya would not be Ayodhya. Ayodhya exists where there is Ram. Lord Ram resides permanently in this city, and hence, in the true sense, this place is Ayodhya."

He congratulated the chief minister and his team for starting the conclave. "I commend CM Yogi Adityanath and his team for the campaign that has been launched by the UP government today to take Ramayana to common people through art and culture by organising the Ramayana conclave," said the President.

The President said when his parents named him, they might have had the same reverence for Lord Ram.

During his visit to Ayodhya, the President laid foundation stones for various projects of the Department of Culture and Tourism and inaugurated Ramayana circuit being developed under the Swadesh Darshan Scheme. He was given the presentation of the construction process of Ram Janmabhoomi and the progress of Ram temple in the making.

PM calls for nurturing culture of sports

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

IN the wake of India's achievements at the Tokyo Olympics, Prime Minister Narendra Modi in his monthly radio broadcast Mann ki Baat called upon people to give further momentum to sports in all parts of the country. He stressed that events should be held in all the villages to promote sports culture.

Saying that India's Olympic medal winners have enthused new energy in the world of sports, Modi said sports has now become a part of conversations in every family. His words, incidentally, came on the birthday of hockey wizard Dhyan Chand, which is marked as the National Sports Day.

Speaking on the changing mindset of the youth, the Prime Minister noted there is perceptible transformation in terms of accepting new challenges. Modi stated that youths in colleges and universities are showing interest in opportunities in the space sector after the policy decision to open it up for the private sector.

The Prime Minister also stressed that the youth is leaving family traditions to embrace new opportunities offered by the start-ups.

JD-U will keep pressing Centre with demand for caste census

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

THE JD-U will not budge an inch from its demand for caste census or implement any law to check population growth. Firming this up at its National Executive Council meeting on Sunday, Bihar's ruling party also stated that Chief Minister Nitish Kumar is not a contender for the post of Prime Minister, although he has has the qualities to take up that role.

The National Executive Council also approved the unanimous election of Rajiv Ranjan Singh alias Lalan Singh as the national president and lauded the performance of outgoing president Ram Chandra Prasad Singh.

Passing a resolution in support of caste census, the JD-U will continue to press the Central government on this, it was decided.

The National Council also approved the party's stand of not going in for any law to check population growth. "Instead of making or adopting any law, the JD-U is promoting education among girls and women to make them aware of population growth. Population control can only happen when women and girls are educated properly," said KC Tyagi.

Later, national general secretary Tyagi said that JD-U will contest next year's UP Assembly elections either as a partner of BJP or alone. The National Council also authorised the national president to take the initiative to contest elections with the NDA in other states including Uttar Pradesh, on the basis of a fair share of seats in Assembly elections.

The focus of the meeting was on continuing with the demand of caste census. Tyagi said this has become a national issue with support from many more parties. "The JDU is continuing with its stand."

He also said the party has decided to make the JD-U a national entity through performance, policies and people's support and participation. Tygai said that a coordination committee should also be formed in the NDA to avoid unnecessary statements.

BJP's Chintan Shivir in Bastar before Rahul trip

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

WITH the ruling party in Chhattisgarh having begun preparations for the proposed trip of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, opposition BJP is set to launch its preparations for the 2023 Assembly polls by organising Chintan Shivir at Bastar from September 1.

After returning from New Delhi on Saturday, Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel said Rahul would also visit Bastar during his two-day tour of the state.

The BJP's scheduled two-day brainstorming session at the tribal-dominated Bastar is intended at working out a strategy, keeping an eye on the tribal votes that play a key role in Chhattisgarh politics. The BJP during the 2018 polls had put up an unimpressive show and won 18 seats as against the Congress' 68. It does not have an MLA from the 12 seats (including 11 reserved for STs) in the Bastar zone.

Other than being known as a region hit by Maoist activities, Bastar is a politically significance belt, where all the parties believe that tribal votes play a key role in the formation of government.

Bastar is known to vote en bloc and the party gaining tribal support usually forms the government. Congress formed the government in 1998 winning 11 seats from the region. In 2003, BJP wrested power by winning eight. Again in 2008, BJP retained its grip on the state by getting an overwhelming 11 seats from Bastar.

Around 50 party leaders including MPs, MLAs and members of the organisation will attend the Chintan Shivir.

Riot-displaced Santhals and Bodos to return home

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

TWENTY-FIVE years after fleeing their homes, those displaced amid a bloody ethnic riot between Santhals and Bodos in Assam will return to their homes.

The autonomous Bodoland Territorial Council (BTC) administration has decided to bring them to their villages over the next three months. Some have been staying in relief camps since 1996 when the riot broke out. Others had moved elsewhere.

"Bodoland witnessed riots in 1996, 2008 and 2012. We want to take the affected people to their homes and establish a peaceful BTR (Bodoland Territorial Region)," BTC chief Pramod Bodo said.

"Our first priority will be to take the affected Santhals and Bodos of Gossaigaon (in Kokrajhar district) to their homes in the next three months. It's unfortunate that they have been away from home for 25 years," he said.

Pramod Bodo

The BTC administration will help rebuild their houses by utilising schemes such as Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana. The houses were torched during the riot or they got destroyed in the past 25 years.

"The houses of not all of these people were destroyed. Basically, they did not return home all these years due to security concerns. We have decided to set up police outposts in the villages," the BTC chief said.

More than 2.5 lakh people were displaced in the Bodo-Santhal conflict. Hundreds of others had lost their lives. In 1998, there was another wave of the exodus when the fight resumed. It was around that time that militancy had peaked in the Bodo areas.

The Santhals were at the receiving end again in December 2014, when the militants of the National Democratic Front of Bodoland or NDFB carried out a series of attacks, killing at least 76 people, inside and outside the BTR.

The 2008 and 2012 riots in Bodoland were between the Bodos and the Bengali-speaking Muslims in which over 100 people were killed and lakhs others displaced.

CBI FIR against Deshmukh after probe clears him

Leaked report of preliminary inquiry says the agency found no evidence against him

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

THE CBI on Sunday registered an FIR against former Maharashtra home minister Anil Deshmukh in connection with an extortion case though the investigating officer of the bureau in a preliminary investigation gave a clean chit to Deshmukh.

Former Maharashtra police chief Param Bir Singh had accused Deshmukh of directing a police officer to collect over ₹100 crore from bars in Mumbai every month.

The Maha Vikas Aghadi government raised questions over the functioning of the Central probe agency and said the actions against Anil Deshmukh were political vendetta.

NCP chief spokesperson Nawab Malik said the Bombay High Court had asked the CBI to conduct a preliminary probe into the allegations made by former Mumbai police commissioner Param Bir Singh and submit a report.

"However, the Investigation Officer (IO) of CBI conducted the probe, and he, in his report stated that there is no evidence against Anil Deshmukh and he had not committed any cognisable offence. He asked the closing the probe. But the senior officers of the CBI who under political influence overruled the IO probe and filed the FIR against the Deshmukh. It means that this is a political case to the High court should intervene and close the probe against the former minister of Maharashtra," Malik added.

The CBI released a statement saying the FIR has been filed so that the probe can be continued.

Sachin Sawant, Maharashtra Congress spokesperson demanded a Supreme Court-monitored inquiry to find out at whose behest the CBI changed its stand by overruling IO report.

"The High Court had only asked to conduct the preliminary probe, but CBI misguided the court over the probe and filed the FIR against Deshmukh. This major crime is done by the CBI, therefore Union minister home minister Amit Shah must take responsibility for the misuse of Central probe agency and should step down," Sawant said.

Meanwhile, Maharashtra transport minister, Anil Parab was on Sunday hit with an Enforcement Directorate (ED) notice in connection with a money laundering case. It comes days after he was caught on camera directing the police to arrest BJP leader and Union minister Narayan Rane.

CASTE CENSUS

IT'S A PANDORA'S BOX, NEEDS CAREFUL HANDLING

NDA allies in Bihar –the JD-U, the Hindustani Awam Morcha and the VIP, have joined the Opposition in demanding a caste census. Dr Nikhil Anand, a social- justice thinker and the national general secretary of the OBC Morcha of the BJP speaks to Rajesh Kumar Thakur on the party's stance on social justice and caste census. Excerpts:

The BJP is getting cornered on the issue of caste-based census with its allies joining hands with the Opposition. What do you say?

The issue of social justice has been defined well by our PM Narendra Modi ji with the slogan- 'sabka sath, sabka vikas and sabka vishwas'. He has done a lot to uplift members of the deprived and oppressed communities whether SC, ST, OBC or Economically Weaker Sections (EWSs). Caste census is just one issue. The whole idea of social justice can't be limited to caste census. The BJP is the biggest advocate of social justice since the starting days of Jana Sangh. Do you think, caste census is the panacea for all the evils plaguing the Indian society? It seems like a Pandora's box, but we are sensible in our approach and very pragmatic towards the cause of social justice. We are not directly opposed to the caste census, but the time frame and preparation are also important. Those demanding caste census must first ask the Congress why they have cheated the OBCs since Independence.

You can't blame the Congress for not doing enough for caste census in 2021. Now, it is your government that is in power at the Centre. What do you have to say?

In 2010, there was a debate in Parliament on conducting a caste census in 2011. Those blaming the BJP should listen to what our leaders Arun Jaitley, Sushma Swaraj, Gopinath Munde and said on the issue back then. It is in the records of Parliament. After the said debate, the UPA government agreed to conduct caste census. Usually, census is conducted under the Census Act. Surprisingly, rather than doing it with the regular census, the UPA government conducted a separate caste census involving private agencies and NGOs of their choice in violation of the Census Act. They wasted ₹5,000 crore of public money and ended up doing something like a sample survey. That is why there are so many data discrepancies. The Congress has cheated the OBCs of India by doing a Caste Census Fraud, which must be investigated and the culprits brought to book. The OBCs of India wants justice for Caste Census Fraud of 2011 by Congress. Why not RJD asks question to Congress?

BJP's prominent ally in Bihar NDA, JD-U has joined the Opposition in demanding a caste census. How difficult will this be for the BJP in the coming days?

Parties like the RJD and the Congress are so desperate to save their family business, which is politics. The RJD has used the OBCs as a vote bank only. How can the party justify its stance, while sitting in the lap of the Congress? BJP is sitting pretty well, banking on the work done by the union government over the past seven years. Whatever our PM has done for social justice in seven years, the Congress couldn't do in 70 years. Antyodaya (Social Justice) and Rashtrawad (Nationalism) are at the core of our governance. We have promoted the all-round growth of this country. No political party has done anything close to what we have done for the poor through Garib Kalyan Yojna.

It is said that there is internal discord within the Bihar BJP over the caste census. Is it true that there are two factions in the party on this issue?

BJP is the only political party which has inner democracy and culture of discourse. Most political parties are either a family fiefdom or pocket organisations of self-obsessed individuals. The BJP has become the largest political organisation globally proves that we are a democratic party. (Full interview on www.newindianexpress.com)

INSPIRED BY MODI

Teen writer strikes the right chord

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

A 15-year-old boy from Bihar's Madhubani district, inspried by Prime Minister Narendra Modi came second in a nationwide story writing competition organised under PM Yuva Mentorship Program, designed to train young writers. Yash Jha wrote two stories—one about an unsung freedom fighter and the other about his grandmother.

Yash Jha

His first story, Babu Dai Amma is about a brave woman from Mithilanchal (Madhubani), who fought the British during the freedom movement. She sparked a yearning for freedom among women.

"Bravery that Babu Dai Amma showed during the freedom struggle, was least known. She had motivated women to get educated. And I tried to bring her patriotic bravery and social services into the knowledge of the people through this story," Yash said.

His second story is about his own grandmother, titled Meena Jung Zindagi Se. It narrates the struggles of his grandmother to raise her children in the best possible way and instill in them India's cultural values.

The boy said he was inspired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Mann Ki Baat speeches. He said the Prime Minister had inspired the youths to write stories of local heroes, so that their stories can reach the world. "Inspired by the words of PM Modi, I wrote these stories during the lockdown," he said. The Prime Minister will inaugurate the top three submissions on the Yuva-Diwas, which is held on January 12.

Jharkhand govt to install solar panels at all PHCs

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

JHARKHAND is set to equip all government hospitals, including community health centers (CHCs) and primary healthcare centers (PHCs) with rooftop solar plants over the next few months.

According to officials of the Jharkhand Renewable Energy Development Agency (JREDA), amid the pandemic, it was observed that keeping the freezer and other medical equipment working is important to preserve medicines for longer periods of time even at small health care centers in the remotest areas of Jharkhand. Therefore, it was decided to install 2-4 KW small solar power plants in all the CHCs and PHCs across the state.

Along with these health care centers, police stations, residential schools, tribal hostels will also be equipped with solar power plants to ensure a regular supply of electricity and to reduce power consumption by at least 40-45 per cent. As many as 1,400 such buildings have been identified under Renewable Power Development Programme.

"As of now, our first priority is health centers like CHCs, PHCs, Sadar Hospitals, secondly, we will be focusing on police stations, then comes residential girls' schools and tribal hostels," said Project Director Vijay Kumar Sinha.

Nobel laureate Abhijit Banerjee says governments must focus on education post pandemic

Nobel Prize winner Abhijeet Banerjee noted the impact of Covid-19 on children's education and urged the government to focus on education going forward. He was delivering the first (Late) Manoj Kumar Srivastava memorial lecture recently. Banerjee elaborated on research into education and economics and shared memories of Manoj Srivastava and his academics interests. Srivastava was an upright IAS officer, whose services in different capacities are admired by the people. Banerjee, quoting an ASER survey, said less than 50% of students in Class five could read text for Class two. Other prominent persons, who spoke were ex-Union minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, Chief Secretary of Bihar Tripuari Sharan, CPIML Dipankar Bhattacharya and Saagar Srivastava, IRS officer and son of late Manoj Srivastava.

UK ends 20-year Af military campaign with 'sense of sadness'

Plane with troops lands at RAF Brize Norton in Oxfordshire | Vice-admiral who oversaw Op Pitting says they could not do things that they had wished in Afghanistan

LONDON

THE last remaining UK troops began landing back from Kabul in Britain on Sunday, ending the country's 20-year military campaign in Afghanistan where the Taliban have seized power.

The Taliban insurgents stormed across the country on August 15, capturing all major cities in a matter of days, two weeks before the US was set to complete its troop withdrawal after a costly two-decade war.

A Royal Air Force (RAF) plane left Kabul airport on Saturday night and arrived at RAF Brize Norton in Oxfordshire, including with British ambassador to Afghanistan Sir Laurie Bristow who had been assisting the evacuation process.

Vice-Admiral Sir Ben Key, who ran the UK's evacuation dubbed Operation Pitting, said there was a "sense of sadness that we haven't done all we would have wished".

In a video posted on Twitter on Sunday morning, Prime Minister Boris Johnson said the end of Operation Pitting was the "culmination of a mission unlike anything we've seen in our lifetimes", and that British troops and officials had "worked around the clock to a remorseless deadline in harrowing conditions".

"They have expended all the patience and care and thought they possess to help people in fear for their lives,' said Johnson.

"They've seen at first hand barbaric terrorist attacks on the queues of people they were trying to comfort, as well as on our American friends. They didn't flinch. They kept calm. They got on with the job," he said.

In a letter to the armed forces community, Johnson acknowledged the fall of Kabul to the Taliban would have been hard for them to watch and "an especially difficult time for the friends and loved ones of the 457 service personnel who laid down their lives" during the war.

He noted that the UK's involvement in Afghanistan "kept Al Qaeda from our door for two decades and we are all safer as a result".

Paying tribute to the efforts of UK forces since 2001, he added: "Though we would not have wished to leave in this way, we have to recognise that we came in with the United States, in defence and support of the US and the US military did the overwhelming bulk of the fighting.

"Together with our allies in America and Europe and around the world, we will engage with the Taliban not on the basis of what they say but what they do,' Johnson said.

Describing the conclusion of the military campaign launched by former British prime minister Tony Blair as a time for reflection, Johnson reiterated a previous statement that if the new regime in Kabul wanted diplomatic recognition, or to unlock the billions currently frozen, they will have to ensure 'safe passage' for those who wish to leave the country, to respect the rights of women and girls and to prevent Afghanistan from becoming 'an incubator for global terror'. PTI

This is UK's largest military evacuation since World War II.

US evacuates 2,000 people in 24 hrs, 1.13L so far

WASHINGTON

THE US has evacuated approximately 2,000 people from the Kabul airport in the last 24 hours (starting August 28 at 3am EDT or 12.30pm IST), the White House has said, as the countdown for the end of America's longest military mission begins in Afghanistan.

Since August 14, the US has evacuated and facilitated the evacuation of approximately 1,13,500 people. Since the end of July, it has re-located approximately 119,000 people, it said.

"The latest evacuation is the result of 11 US military flights, which carried approximately 1,400 evacuees, and seven coalition flights, which carried 600 people," the White House said on Saturday.

"This is an incredible number of people who are now safer thanks to the heroism of the young men and women who are putting their lives on the line each day to evacuate American and vulnerable Afghans out of Kabul," Major General Hank Taylor Commander, Army Operational Test Command told reporters at the Pentagon.

"We continue to evacuate American citizens and vulnerable Afghans out of Kabul. In fact, there are approximately 1,400 individuals at the Kabul airport who have been screened and manifested for flights today," he said.

On Friday, 32 U.S. military aircraft, 27 C-17s and five C-130s departed with approximately 4,000 personnel. Combined with 34 coalition aircraft and departures, an additional 2,800 personnel left for various intermediate staging bases.

"Today, I can report an updated total evacuation that is over 117,000. The vast majority of which are Afghans. Of them, around 5,500 are Americans," he said. PTI

Taliban fighter kills Afghan folk singer

Kabul: A Taliban fighter shot dead an Afghan folk singer in a mountain province under unclear circumstances, his family said Sunday. The slaying of Fawad Andarabi reignited concerns among activists that the insurgents would return to their oppressive rule in the country after their military blitz toppled the government. Fawad was shot in the Andarabi Valley after which he was named, an area of Baghlan province some 100km north of Kabul. The Taliban previously came out to Andarabi's home and searched it, even drinking tea with the musician, his son Jawad Andarabi told reporters. But something changed on Friday. "He was innocent," his son said. "They shot him in the head on the farm." AP

FRANCE, BRITAIN TO PROPOSE 'SAFE ZONE' IN KABUL

Paris: France President Emmanuel Macron said France and Britain plan to propose at the UN on Monday the creation of a safe zone in Kabul under UN control that would allowed for continued humanitarian operations. "This would keep pressure on the Taliban and hold the international community accountable," said Macron. It was unclear if the zone envisaged would be linked to eventual 'targeted evacuations' that Macron spoke of on Saturday. France ended its evacuation flights out of Kabul on Friday night after bringing out 2,834 people, mostly Afghans. AP

Educators' plea to Taliban

Kabul: Former officials and lecturers at Afghanistan universities have called on the Taliban to maintain and upgrade the country's education system instead of creating a new one. Former higher education minister Abas Basir on Sunday said at a conference held by the Taliban that starting over is a mistake made by previous governments. He says: 'Lets not reject everything, starting a new system, we should work more on what we already have.' AP

'US can evacuate remaining Americans'

Iran and Syria vow to confront US sanctions

Damascus: Iran and Syria vowed on Sunday to take 'mighty steps' to confront US sanctions imposed on them, saying their relations will strengthen under Iran's new leadership. The announcement was made by Iran's new Foreign Minister Hossein Amir-Abdollahian, who was received at the airport here by his Syrian counterpart, Faisal Mekdad. Iran has been one of Syrian President Bashar Assad's strongest backers, sending thousands of fighters from around the region to help his troops in Syria's 10-year conflict that has killed half a million and displaced half the country's pre-war population of 23 million. Thieves attack car, steal Covid shots in Tehran

Tehran: The police chief for Iran's capital says a gang of thieves has robbed scores of Covid vaccines after attacking a hired car carrying the doses, media reported. The robbery comes as Iran, with over 1.06 lakh virus-related deaths, has the highest death toll in the mideast but only 8 per cent of its people are fully vaccinated. Tehran police chief Hossein Rahimi said robbers attacked and seized 300 vaccines after a courier service left a Health Ministry medical storage facility south of the capital. AP

Sanaa: A missile and drone attack on a key military base in Yemen's south on Sunday killed at least 30 troops, a Yemeni military spokesman said. It was one of the deadliest attacks in the country's civil war in recent years. Mohammed al-Naqib, spokesman for Yemen's southern forces, told The Associated Press the attack on Al-Anad Air Base in the province of Lahj wounded at least 65. He said the casualty toll could rise since rescue teams were still clearing the site. Footage from the scene showed several charred bodies on the ground. Yemeni officials said at least three explosions took place at the air base, held by the internationally recognised government. AP

Govt to introduce new racial harmony law

Singapore: Singapore will introduce a new law on racial harmony to encourage moderation and tolerance between different racial groups, Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong said on Sunday. Speaking at the National Day rally, Lee said the new Maintenance of Racial Harmony Act will consolidate all existing laws dealing with racial issues, which are currently scattered under various pieces of legislation like the Penal Code. Apart from providing for penalties to deal with racial offences, the new law will also incorporate "softer and gentler touches" that focus on persuasion and rehabilitation. For instance, it will vest the authorities with powers to order someone who has caused offence to stop and make amends by learning more about the other race. PTI

Dhaka: There is no existence of the Taliban in Bangladesh and other smaller notorious outfits in the country cannot create chaos, Home Minister Asaduzzaman Kamal has said, dismissing concerns that Taliban's victory in Afghanistan may encourage militants in Bangladesh. "Bangladesh is a country of peace. Taliban have come to power in Afghanistan and Kabul is located far from Bangladesh. So it has no effect in Bangladesh," he told reporters. "There are many small notorious groups in the country. But they have no capacity to create chaos," the minister said. PTI

Israel strikes Gaza after border clashes

JERUSALEM

THE Israeli air force attacked two sites in Gaza on Sunday, the army said, after Gazans clashed with forces on the border and launched incendiary balloons into southern Israel.

Israeli "fighter jets struck a Hamas military compound used for manufacturing weapons and training as well as an entrance to a terror tunnel adjacent to Jabalia," the Israeli army said.

"The strikes were in response to Hamas launching incendiary balloons into Israeli territory and the violent riots that took place yesterday," it said in a statement. The army said both incidents were "examples of how Hamas continues to employ terror tactics and target civilians." There were no reports from the Gaza Strip of any casualties caused by the Israeli strikes.

Speaking in Washington, where he had met with US President Joe Biden, Israeli Prime Minister Naftali Bennett said he held Gaza's Islamist rulers Hamas responsible for any unrest from the Palestinian enclave. "As I have already said, our actions in Gaza will serve our interests," he told reporters before boarding a plane back to Israel. "As far as I'm concerned, the address (of those responsible) has been and remains Hamas."

On Saturday evening, two wildfires broke out in the Eshkol region near the Palestinian enclave, Israeli firefighters said. Protests erupted later in the day, with the Israeli army firing tear gas and stun grenades as Palestinians burned tyres on the border between Gaza and Israel, an AFP reporter said.

The health ministry in Gaza said 11 Palestinians had been hurt in the clashes, three of them by live fire. AFP

Hurricane Ida makes landfall at Louisiana, people asked to stay alert

NEW ORLEANS

HURRICANE Ida struck the coast of Louisiana on Sunday as a powerful Category 4 storm, 16 years to the day after deadly Hurricane Katrina devastated the southern US city of New Orleans.

"Extremely dangerous Category 4 Hurricane Ida makes landfall near Port Fourchon, Louisiana," the National Hurricane Center wrote in an advisory. Ida struck the port, located approximately 160 km directly south of New Orleans, at 1655 GMT, packing maximum sustained winds estimated at 150 miles per hour.

Ahead of Ida's arrival, showers and strong wind swept New Orleans' deserted streets throughout the morning, buffeting boarded-up windows at businesses and homes surrounded by sandbags.

Governor John Bel Edwards said Ida, which had gathered force on its approach through the warm waters of the Gulf, could be the most powerful storm to hit the state since 1850. "Hurricane #Ida has made landfall in Louisiana. Find the safest place in your house and stay there until the storm passes," he said on Twitter. Storm surges had earlier flooded the town of Grand Isle, on a barrier island south of New Orleans, CNN reported.

The National Hurricane Center also reported high water levels and flooding affecting the communities of Shell Beach, Louisiana and Yach Club, Mississippi.

Extensive and long-lasting power outages are expected, with more than 150,000 homes already without electricity by midday, according to the website poweroutage.us.

Amid urgent warnings of catastrophic damage, most residents had heeded authorities' instructions to flee. Scores of people packed bumper-to-bumper roads leading out of New Orleans in the days preceding Ida's arrival.

Governor Edwards warned on Sunday that Ida would be "a very serious test for our levee systems," an extensive network of pumps, gates and earthen and concrete berms that was expanded after Katrina. AFP

Nora brushes past Puerto Vallarta, no damage reported

MEXICO CITY

HURRICANE Nora is churning northward up Mexico's Pacific Coast toward the narrow Gulf of California, after making a sweep past the Puerto Vallarta area. Authorities in Mexico's Jalisco state, where Nora made a brief landfall on Saturday night, said there were no early reports of serious damage.

But forecasters warned that people along Mexico's central and northern Pacific Coast should be alert to the dangers of flooding, mudslides and perilous surf. Nora had maximum sustained winds of 120 kph on Sunday morning, with tropical storm force winds extending out 105 miles (165 kilometers).

It was centered about 30 miles (50 kilometers) southeast of Mazatlan, and heading north-northwest at 12 mph (19 kph).

The US National Hurricane Center said Nora was likely to keep dragging along the coast and gradually weaken to a tropical storm by Sunday night before entering the Gulf of California.

The storm was predicted to keep moving north up the gulf, before weakening further to a tropical depression and heading inland toward the Arizona border region. AP

Challenges of 'accounting' for cryptocurrency gains

Lack of clarity on taxability is a stumbling block for crypto investors

DIPAK MONDAL @New Delhi

THE ambiguity over the legal status of cryptocurrency, and the lack of clear guidelines from the tax department on the treatment of capital gains made from cryptos may expose investors to many future litigations, and in some cases, even criminal proceedings.

And yet cryptocurrencies in India are selling like hotcakes with scores of start-ups launching crypto exchanges, giving investors easy access to this asset class. As per various estimates, India today has close to 1.5 million cryptocurrency investors. The rise in the number of investors and invested amounts have coincided with the rise of cryptocurrency prices.In one year to 29 August 2021, the most popular cryptocurrency – bitcoin – has seen its prices surging by 320% from ₹8.40 lakh on 29 August 2020 to ₹35.60 lakh on 29th August 2021. This explains the craze for virtual currencies in India.

However, the hype around digital currency has not impressed the government and regulators, as they remain wary of private virtual currencies. While the finance ministry has been keeping its cards close to its heart as far as its policy regarding cryptocurrencies is concerned, the RBI has been more categorical in his stance with governor Shaktikanta Das stating that private cryptocurrencies remain a risk for financial stability.

KEY STATS

$6.6 BILLION is the estimated amount of crypto currency investments made in India

RS 35.6 LAKH is the current price of bitcoins

320% is the increase in bitcoin prices over the last one year

1.5 MILLION is the total estimated number of crypto currency investors in India

Disclosing details to tax dept

Even if there is no order or guidelines from the tax department on disclosing the capital gains made from cryptocurrency, the tax department is asking questions and sending notices about the crypto-transactions and the gains from them.

Income tax department has been sending notices asking from the assessee the source of income (which has been used to buy virtual currencies), source of investment, along with supporting documents, statement of the bank account through which investments are being made in virtual currency, and the capital gains made from such investments.

Clearly, the department is not only looking at the taxability of capital gains made from virtual currencies, they are asking for details to check if any illegal proceeds are being funneled into virtual currencies.

Sandeep Sehgal, who is director - taxes and regulatory services in tax consulting firm AKM Global, says since there are no express guidelines as to what all information needs to be disclosed, the department may try to gather as much information as possible.

"The information that is being asked for are the source of income from where the investments have been made, treatment in the tax return on the income/loss generated on cryptos, and whether any transfer of coins has taken place from one wallet to another wallet in or outside India," he says.

The lack of clarity on taxability also poses several challenges for investors even in disclosing their gains from virtual currencies. There have been instances, explains Sehgal, where crypto investors have exchanged the crypto asset purchased on exchange with an over-the-counter market, which poses challenges to identify the exact person who actually dealt in crypto currency.

"The department could ask if any such transaction has been entered by a taxpayer, particularly, if there is mismatch in holdings (of virtual currencies) of a person over a period," he says. But even if there is no clarity, tax experts advise investors to disclose their gains on their own. "It is always advisable to pay taxes on the profits made from transactions in cryptocurrency as well as report information regarding cryptocurrency held in the return of income filed, to avoid any adverse penal consequences," says Dhaval Jariwala, a Mumbai-based chartered accountant.

Taxability of gains

In absence of any clear rules, tax experts believe that crypto currencies are treated as assets and the gains from them are treated as capital gains and taxed accordingly. However, even this could be disputed.

What about gains from frequent trading? In the case of equities, income from frequent trading is considered business income. If this rule is applied, gains from trading could be treated as business income and taxed accordingly.

Even in cases where the profits are treated as capital gains, should the capital gains be treated as long term after completion of 12 months as in case of equities or after the completion of 36 months as in case of debt, gold and real estate?

These are questions which only the tax department could answer, and without clear rules you are at the mercy of tax officials.

MONEY-WISE

PASS ON FINANCIAL INFO TO EMPLOYEES

A friend asked what's the best thing he could do for his employees.

"What are you doing for them currently?" I replied.

He said he subsidises their housing by part-paying their rent and pay? for their children's education."What else?" I asked, to which he added, he gives them a loan whenever they want money.

I said the greatest thing that a finance person like you can do is to Impart Financial health, and knowledge to them. Whenever they come to you for a loan just direct them to a bank. This way it will be ensured that they buy a good property - the papers would be vetted. I said by encouraging them to go to the bank and dealing with them, they will know the REAL purpose of a bank.

Once they take a loan to buy a cow, motorcycle or home, they will get the good habit of repaying regularly. Tell them that they should borrow only to earn an income - buy a cow to sell milk, buy a car to drive as a taxi. However, if he/she asks for a loan to buy a fancy mobile for his son/daughter/wife, it has to be a No. Hand-me-down mobiles, second-hand mobiles should work. So borrow for investing, but no borrowing for spending. It is not uncommon to see loans of almost ₹1 Million for a marriage! When I saw it for the first time, I was stumped.

FINANCIAL ADVICE

PV SUBRAMANYAM writes at www.subramoney.com and has authored the best seller 'Retire Rich - Invest ₹ 40 a day'

Teach them basic Personal finance - ask them to do a sip in a Multi-Asset fund over say 20 years. Teach them to open and operate a savings bank account. Use these assets and open a Varisht Vima Yojana or a Pradhan mantri Arogya Yojana - a pension scheme or a Term Life insurance. Make sure that his/her name in all the documents are in synch with the Pan card and Aadhar number.

Make sure that they understand what offers like "zero interest" mean. Telling them the importance of keeping their house papers in place, making regular payment, Cibil score, understanding banking, interest rates, PPF or Mutual fund SIP..it is our job.

Like we teach our children (ok, like we should teach our children), we should teach the people working with us. It is very difficult to believe that the employees of mutual funds are not taught this by their Employees. Very tough to believe, but absolutely true.

Instead of blaming the government that they are doing nothing - the BFSI - banks, life insurance companies, asset management companies, regulators, stock and commodity exchanges, etc. one should start their own investment clubs and encourage Investment Awareness Programs.

So as a person who is well off (privileged) - the best thing you can do is Vidya daan - the donating of Education. Teaching - especially finance - to the people at the bottom of the pyramid is one of the noblest and perhaps one of the best things you can do.

All of us can do this and we will have a lot of thankful souls around us.

Role of Sectoral & Thematic Funds in your Portfolio

PANKAJ CHOPRA

THE phrases - sectoral fund and thematic fund are used fairly commonly and most mutual fund houses have launched schemes that would qualify for one of the categories. But what do these funds mean and how should you be analysing them in the context of your investments?

As you would be aware, companies listed on the exchanges operate in various industries, whether it is pharmaceuticals, or steel, in some kind of service like banking, hotels etc. Sectors are very similar to industries, but may typically include one or few closely-related industries. Examples relevant for the above mentioned industries would be Healthcare sector, Metals sector, Banking & Financial Services (BFSI) sector and Travel & Tourism sector respectively. Sectoral funds define which sector they would be investing into, in their offering document.

I like to see this as maybe slicing the market. So if for a moment, we assume the market is like a cube, sectors are like slices of the cube. If you invest in a particular sectoral fund (slice) you will get exposure only to that slice of the market.

Staying with the assumption above, instead of slicing vertically which provides you with the sectors, if you slice the markets horizontally, you would get the market cap-related funds - these would be the large-cap funds, the mid-cap funds and the small-cap funds. These funds will invest across sectors, but only in the market cap range that has been pre-defined in the scheme offering document.

Thematic funds are a bit more complicated, these funds try to have some common factors that would be the characteristics of the underlying companies. A classical example for a thematic fund is a High-Dividend-Yield fund, where the underlying companies can be from any sector and of any market cap, but they have a common feature where the dividends paid by the company provide an attractive yield on the current market price. Another example of thematic funds would be a Commodities fund, which then encompasses anything that is produced and sold in bulk without much branding. These typically include cement, steel, other metals, basic chemicals and many other products that are produced and sold in bulk i.e not directly to individual consumers. Many other themes can be created such as Interest-Rate-Sensitive - where companies with high debt would be more impacted, or Foreign-Exchange-Sensitive - where companies with high percentage of exports or imports will be more impacted, etc.

As you can see from the above, all these type of funds invest in only a certain pocket of the markets. This makes them a high-risk - high-return option. That is because come what may, these funds are restricted to invest only as per their stated objective. If the particular sector/market cap or theme does well, the returns can far exceed overall returns from the markets, but on the other hand, if the areas where the fund invests do not do well, it may lag the markets significantly. Further, market situations evolve continuously and what is doing well now may or may not do well few months down the line.

Therefore, one has to be careful while investing in the above type of funds. Firstly, you should have a need to invest in them. That need can come from a better understanding of a particular sector etc. For example, if you believe the current pandemic situation will lead to a long term sustainable opportunity for pharmaceutical companies and hospitals, you may want to do some investments in a Healthcare Fund or a need for higher income from the portfolio may require you to invest into high-dividend-yield-funds.

When investing, remember

Your belief needs to be strong and backed by rational arguments rather than a whim or the urge to participate in some current fads. Secondly, you need to be clear that you will be able to monitor these investments on a continuous basis.

Your belief needs to be strong and backed by rational arguments rather than a whim or the urge to participate in some current fads. Secondly, you need to be clear that you will be able to monitor these investments on a continuous basis. As we go forward, situations change but the investment scope will remain the same.

You need make appropriate adjustments to your investments as the Fund Manager will be unable to do so, given the restrictions of investing in only the stated set of companies. Sectoral and thematic funds are for better informed investors. If you think you cannot track the markets on an ongoing basis, it may be best to stick to the mainline flexi-cap funds offered by most fund houses.

On the other hand, if you believe you can spot emerging trends and have the time and inclination to follow markets, sectoral and thematic funds can help boost your overall returns significantly.

MEGA FUNDRAISE

Airtel to raise up to ₹21k cr via rights issue

TELECOM operator Bharti Airtel's board on Sunday approved raising up to ₹21,000 crore by way of rights issue, at a price of ₹535 per share, according to a regulatory filing.

The mega fundraising is bound to give more firepower to Airtel, as the company takes on rivals in the fiercely-competitive Indian telecom market.

India, which is the world's second-largest telecom market and the biggest data consumer, is now gearing up for 5G that will significantly scale up connectivity pipes, enabling ultra-high-speeds and new-age applications for users, and new revenue streams for players among other things..

Airtel's board, which met to consider the company's capital raising plans, cleared rights issue price of ₹535 per fully paid-up equity share, including premium of ₹530 per equity share.

In a BSE filing, Airtel said that the "...board approved the issuance of equity shares of face value of ₹5 each of the company on rights basis to eligible equity shareholders of the company as on the record date (to be notified later), of an issue size of up to₹ 21,000 crore".

The rights entitlement ratio entails one equity share for every 14 equity shares held by eligible shareholders as on the record date. The terms of payment of issue price, envisage 25% on application and balance in two more additional calls as may be decided by the board or its committee based on the company's requirements within an overall time-horizon of 36 months, Airtel said.

"The promoter and promoter group of the company would collectively subscribe to the full extent of their aggregate rights entitlement," it said. PTI

WHAT A THIRD WAVE MEANS TO YOUR MONEY

A primary thing to watch for your money is the trend in the inflation rate

RAJAS KELKAR

IF the idea is to learn from the past, this is it. An imminent third wave of infections looms, according to most experts in India. Large economies like the United States and Europe are already going through a surge of the so-called 'Delta Variant'. Economically, keeping money cheap and giving easy access to borrowers is the standard solution. Rich countries are already keeping interest rates near zero. Most of them can afford to do so as the US Dollar and Euro are primary reserve currencies.

A country's response is based on the state of the government finances. India does not have the luxury of printing an endless amount of money as the Rupee is not a reserve currency. As a result, the government works on moving money to those who need them within the limitations of the budget.

The other key factor is any potential supply disruption due to food shortage or deficient rains. An analysis by CRISIL of rainfall in various states reveals that only Gujarat and Odisha are likely to witness poor rains this year. However, they are not significant contributors to the overall agricultural output in India. Hence, there is no need for any alarm, they argue.

"We expect the sector to grow at 3% year-on-year in the current fiscal (over 3.6% last fiscal)," CRISIL's analysis said.

A primary thing to watch for your money is the trend in the inflation rate. Thus far, India has stayed within reasonable limits and has kept consumer prices from spiralling.

Statements from the Reserve Bank of India suggest a preparation to tackle the economic impact of the third wave of infections. RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das, in his comments during the monetary policy committee meeting, highlighted the need to support growth. That means keeping borrowing rates low to ensure that borrowers who need money for expansion do not have a problem getting easy money. Corporate borrowers who want to expand should be allowed to get the cash they need. That ensures little economic disruption does not create an artificial shortage of goods and services.

The other aspect is about economic growth. Your money will grow if the businesses you invest in keep increasing revenue and profits. That is primarily linked to economic growth.

There is solid data for specific areas where the government needs to provide budgetary support or other intervention. While large companies have managed to keep using their strong balance sheets to fund expansion, the small and medium enterprises are struggling to even get back to the levels before the pandemic.

According to one analysis by CARE Ratings, a credit rating agency, of over 3000 companies for their financial performance, only 44% of them had sales higher than in 2019, the year before the pandemic. "This means that nearly more than half the sample companies have not yet reached their 2019 levels," the analysis said. The performance is driven mainly by large companies, and nearly half of those companies have not recovered from the double lockdown.

A third lockdown would create further distress for smaller and medium enterprises. These entities make most of the employment in the organised sector. If they remain distressed, there can be no economic growth.

From your standpoint, if the government does not support small businesses, that is terrible news. You need India to steadily grow so that businesses thrive and create jobs for not just years but decades. Any halt to this cycle could seriously damage your prospect of generating a steady return on equity or equity-linked assets.

A potential third wave means you have to prioritise the health of yourself and your loved ones first. The only way to fight any spread of infections is by getting vaccinated. In that context, the government has recently allowed a vaccine to be administered for children aged 12-17. However, the fear in the third wave is that it would affect the younger, unvaccinated population more than the old. As you await your child's vaccination, continue to follow Covid-19 protocols and restrict visits to crowded places.

Once you have ensured that, you move your attention to your finances.

OMC ODISHA NEW OPPORTUNITIES Presents e-expressions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

"HOCKEY," Rani Rampal says, "was almost finished in a certain way. But the Odisha government invested so much money as they wanted to bring back the sport." The Indian women's captain is in the middle of explaining the role Odisha played in transforming the country's fortunes in the sport. That's when it becomes clear that the upward trajectory of both the men's and women's teams largely coincided with the time the state started showing an interest in backing a sport responsible for giving the country each of its first eight Olympic gold.

In a special message, the Odisha CM, Naveen Patnaik, said the sport occupies a special place in the state. "We intend to take forward hockey development in Odisha, through the development of infrastructure and coaching programmes. As we prepare to host the World Cup in 2023, it is our hope and prayer that the team brings home the gold. Nothing will make Odisha and India happier. I believe hockey has a great future in the coming years. India is all set to dominate the game of hockey. Odisha has taken up many sports initiatives for other disciplines as well, like football, athletics, weightlifting etc. We are giving a major boost to infrastructure and grassroots programmes. The youth of our country needs to get into sports. The investment that we are making in sports is the investment we are making for our youth and hence, for the future of our society and country."

R Vineel Krishna, commissioner and secretary, sports and youth services, Odisha, elaborated a bit on the state's association not just with hockey but sports like rugby. In a conversation with TNIE Editorial Director, Prabhu Chawla, and senior journalists, Kaveree Bamzai and Sharda Ugra on E-Expressions, a virtual thought platform from The New Indian Express, Rampal, men's team captain, Manpreet Singh and Krishna get intimate about Odisha's role in the past, present and future of sport there. Excerpts:

Can you talk about the change the sport has seen in the last four-five years, in terms of your personal growth (to Rani)?

Odisha has set a very good example for the rest of the country. What they have done is create a (sporting) culture. Talking to you from a personal experience, when we went to play the (Olympic) qualifiers, we saw mountain climbing and we liked it. In India, that game is not known also. If we talk about hockey, it was almost finished in a certain way, but Odisha invested so much money as they wanted to bring back the sport. Talking about my journey, it has been good and has been tough also. If you look at the current situation, money has come into the sport. Things have changed, jobs are there. There are more facilities. But when I initially started, I thought such things would never come into women's hockey. I never thought that people would write about women's hockey in newspapers, and people would talk about us. I am talking about the time I started and now, most of the players are known individually. The Odisha government investment is very important in sport for that money is needed and Odisha invested for the future, which is very good.

Can you talk about the change and Odisha's role in it (to Manpreet)?

There has been huge support from the Odisha government. Like earlier, big events would not happen in India much. Odisha government has hosted major events like World Cup and others. When we talk to other players also, they say they want to play in Bhubaneswar as the crowd and the government support here is outstanding. We call this our second home. I call Bhubaneswar my favourite venue. What they are doing is really good with sponsorships and all. When a state is doing so much, other states are also thinking now as to how and what they can also do something like this.

Punjab has produced some big names in hockey. But why did such a change not happen there (to Manpreet)?

The Odisha government has taken a lead so other states like Punjab and others are also trying to develop. It takes time, now they are sanctioning more turfs. It is a good thing if there are more turfs in the country as it will help the players. The Odisha government has already laid so many turfs. Not only hockey, but they are also doing well in other sports too. So other states are looking at all these closely. Punjab is also looking at ways how the sport of hockey can be taken higher.

Can you talk about the experience of playing in Bhubaneswar (to Rani)?

When we played there in the Olympic qualifiers (in November 2019), we were playing for the first time in front of such a packed home crowd. To be honest, it felt so nice. It felt we were playing with 14-15 players. We get so much energy from the crowd. They cheered till the last minute, which is a great quality among the people of Odisha. Hockey resides in their heart.

What is the kind of involvement that Odisha has, not just in hockey but in sport itself (to Krishna)?

We have been having a long relationship with Hockey India. It dates back to 2013 when Odisha became one of the first states to have a club in the Hockey India League. From then onwards, the relationship with HI has matured. In 2018, we even signed an agreement for sponsoring both national teams for five years (that's now extended).

Over the last 4-5 years, we have practically conducted all tournaments in Bhubaneswar. The Kalinga Stadium was upgraded for the World Cup in 2018. The state government support for hockey basically comes from the vision of our CM, Shri Naveen Patnaik. He believes that sport is an important platform to engage the youth. He believes that sport is for youth, youth is the future. We are doing a huge investment in sport... in the background of Covid-19, everybody is very much aware of the importance of health and fitness. Therefore, the vision is also about how do we create a healthy and fit society.

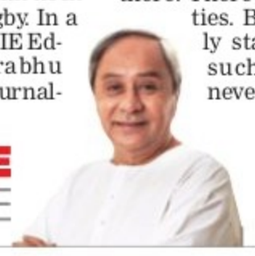
So our partnership isn't just limited to hockey, it includes sport that we don't normally talk about, like rugby. It is a sport where our Odisha girls perform quite well at the national level. They have also participated in a few international meets. You will be surprised to know that the Indian women's rugby team is currently based out of Bhubaneswar. And there are three South African coaches who are training them. They will be going to the Asian Championships in Uzbekistan shortly.

The Odisha government has played a crucial role in India's rise in recent years

But when I initially started... I never thought that people would write about women's hockey in newspapers, and people would talk about us.
Rani Rampal, India women's team captain

The Odisha government has taken a lead so other states like Punjab and others are also trying... It takes time, now they are sanctioning more turfs
Manpreet Singh, India men's team captain

QUOTE UNQUOTE



We intend to take forward hockey development in Odisha, through the development of infrastructure and coaching programmes.
Naveen Patnaik, Odisha CM

Our partnership isn't just limited to hockey, it includes sport that we don't normally talk about, like rugby. It is a sport where our Odisha girls perform quite well at the national level.

Vinod Kumar (C) finished third in the men's F52 discus throw event | PCI

Vinod bags bronze, result on hold after challenge

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

DURING the 1971 Indo-Pak war, Dharampal Malik, a BSF soldier, stepped on a landmine severely injuring his right leg, which eventually had to be amputated later on. The accident on duty meant his son Vinod got a job with the force in 2002. Six months later, the tragedy struck again as Vinod fell off a cliff in Leh during training, injuring both his legs and rendering him bed-ridden for close to a decade.

Vinod lost both his parents during these painful years. His condition improved in 2012 and he started a small grocery shop near the Rajiv Gandhi Sports Complex in Rohtak. It was there he first saw athletes thronging to the stadium for their training. But it was not before Deepa Malik's historic silver medal at the 2016 Rio Olympics, he made up his mind to pursue sports professionally. And in just five years, the 41-year-old Haryana athlete pocketed bronze by finishing third in the men's F52 discus throw event of the Tokyo Paralympics on Sunday.

Bhavinaben Patel

Despite finishing third with an Asian record behind Piotr Kosewicz (20.02m) of Poland and Velimir Sandor (19.98m) of Croatia, his result was put on hold following an objection filed by his competitors challenging his classification in the F52 event. "The matter has been sent to classification panel and it is likely to announce a decision tomorrow (Monday)," Satyanarayana, India's para athletic coach, told this daily from Tokyo. F52 is for athletes with impaired muscle power, restricted range of movement, limb deficiency or leg length difference, with athletes competing in a seated position with cervical cord injury, spinal cord injury, amputation, and functional disorder.

International Paralympic Committee (IPC) classifies an athlete's disability for two years. The postponement of the Tokyo Paralympics by a year meant a few athletes including Vinod had to be classified again by the IPC. Only on August 22, it was confirmed that Vinod can compete in the T/F52 category. "It's not easy as I am in debt but the sacrifices will pay dividends if I win a medal," the para athlete had told this daily a few days ahead of the event. He had finished fourth in the 2019 World Para Athletics Championships in Dubai to book a Paralympic ticket. Vinod had returned Covid-19 positive twice and had to be hospitalised on both the occasion earlier this year while camping at the SAI centre in Bengaluru.

Bhavinaben finishes with silver

Bhavinaben Patel's impressive run at the Games ended with a 7-11, 5-11, 6-11 loss to China's Ying Zhou, a two-time gold medallist, in the women's singles table tennis class 4 final which lasted 19 minutes.

Asian C'ships: 2 boys, 6 girls claim gold

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

TEENAGERS Rohit Chamoli (48kg) and Bharat Joon (+81kg) had a day to remember on Sunday. Taking part in the ongoing Asian Youth and Junior Championships in Dubai, the boxers claimed gold medals, something that could potentially propel them to bigger hits in the future. Later, junior women boxers Vishu Rathee (48kg), Tanu (52kg), Nikita Chand (60kg), Mahi Raghav (63kg), Pranjal Yadac (75kg) and Kirti (+81kg) emulated the boys to win gold.

It was Rohit who opened India's gold account in the continental event with a narrow win against Otgonbayar Tuvshinzaya of Mongolia. Both got off to a fast start, trading numerous punches. They maintained a high intensity level and continued to throw punches at each other. It was hard to separate the two, but it was Otgonbayar who had the upper hand going into the second round with three judges (out of a total of five) voting in his favour.

Rohit Chamoli with his gold medal

Rohit, a southpaw, needed a strong comeback in the second round. And he did just that, winning four votes. Trailing on points, Otgonbayar was chasing for big hits in the final round, launching some good combination punches. But Rohit was equal to the task as he used his reach advantage to nullify his opponent. Rohit was also using the ring space well and landing some good hits. Every time the Mongolian charged at him, Rohit did well to fend off the challenge with some counter-punches. The Indian boxer's hard work paid off as he bagged the contest by a narrow margin (3-2).

Later, Bharat beat Yerdos Sharipbek Yerdos of Kazakhstan. After a watchful start, the Indian heavyweight slowly started to assert himself with some big blows. But the Kazakh boxer also had a positive approach and kept going at the Indian, making him do all the leg work. Bharat managed to soak in the pressure and land some hooks. Sharipbek was the aggressor at the start of the second round. The southpaw, with nothing to lose, was throwing some hefty blows. The Indian was forced to stay on his toes. The Kazakh continued to pile on the pressure but the Indian made full use of the space around him to stay out of trouble. Gaurav Saini (70kg), Muskan (46kg), Aanchal Saini (57kg), Rudrika (70kg), Sanjana (81kg) settled for silver.

OPEN TIME

With the year's last Slam beginning in New York on Monday, a look at some of the talking points...

THE ABSENCES

Men's defending champion, Dominic Thiem, is out. So is Roger Federer, Rafa Nadal and Stan Wawrinka, three former winners. Also out is Serena Williams.

OSAKA VS BARTY

Even if Serena is out, it doesn't feel her absence will be felt because the baton was passed a few years ago to the likes of Naomi Osaka and Ash Barty. Both disappointed at the Olympics but they are both in good form, having won two of the last three Slams.

THE PRETENDERS

The new guard have taken its time to get used to the pace of long format tennis but they are finally used to the rhythms and patterns. All of Stefanos Tsitsipas, Alexander Zverev, Daniil Medvedev and Matteo Berrettini have reached Major finals in the last year. Could one of them win their maiden punch to stop Djokovic's coronation?

LOADED WOMEN'S LINE-UP

There are as many as 13 singles champions. Because of the presence of so many mercurial players, the draw, as always, thrown up some potential popcorn matches. Look out for a possible third-rounder between Bianca Andreescu and Jelena Ostapenko and a last-eight match between Barty and Iga Swiatek.

DJOKOVIC'S MOMENT

The Serb's 2021 could go from great to one of the best of all time if he wins here. No man since Rod Laver in 1969 has won all four Slams in one year. Of course, the 34-year-old will also move clear of Federer and Nadal with another title. The stakes could literally not be any higher.

Davis Cup: Nagal out, Myneni in

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

SAKETH Myneni has been drafted in to replace Sumit Nagal for the upcoming Davis Cup tie against Finland. Nagal communicated to the All India Tennis Association (AITA) that he won't be available after he sustained a hip injury. AITA did consider other options like Sasikumar Mukund but he himself had communicated his unavailability earlier owing to injury.

Interestingly, Myneni's call up raised eyebrows because he hasn't played in a single competitive match since March. However, Nandan Bal, chairman of the selection committee, said Myneni was picked because of his experience. "We were of the opinion that we didn't want a raw face," he said. "Myneni is someone who has been there, done it multiple times. And he is comfortable playing singles or doubles so that's always an advantage." Bal opined that 'Finland is a very winnable tie. It's not like facing teams like Spain." It's likely that Finland's challenge will be spearheaded by World No 76, Emil Ruusuvuori.

However, like Bal mentioned, India, overall, hold the edge in both singles and doubles. The World Group first round match will be played at the Espoo Metro Arena on September 17 and 18.

On the occasion of National Sports Day, Karnataka Olympic Association (KOA) felicitated state athletes, including swimmer Srihari Nataraj, equestrian Fouaad Mirza and golfer Aditi Ashok who featured for India in Tokyo Olympics. The trio, alongside BS Ankitha, assistant coach of women's hockey team were honoured in the event, which was attended by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, Sports Minister Narayan Gowda, Governor Thaawarchand Ghelot and KOA president K Govindaraj. However, Fouaad and Aditi missed the event. Fouaad's father accepted the honour on his son's behalf. Aditi is currently playing in Sweden.

17-year-old Bengaluru athlete Priya H Mohan, who won bronze medal in the 4x400m mixed team relay and finished fourth in the individual 400m at the recently concluded World Athletics Under-20 Championship, was awarded Rs 5 lakh at the function. Former state athletes including Uday Prabhu (athletics), Ravi Nayakar (hockey), Tejeswani Bai (kabbaddi) among others were also felicitated.

Govindaraj stressed upon the need for good infrastructure and increase in sports budget to support state athletes. CM Bommai, later, assured support, stating, " I think by March, we will be in a better position to allocate a proper and adequate budget for sports. It is going to be increased."

Rich-poor divide

In rich countries, internet access is almost universal and the vast majority of young adults use it. In the developing world, especially South Asia and Africa, only a fraction of the population uses the internet

INTERNET HISTORY

The internet turns 52 in a few days. Though it is extremely young when compared to other technologies in history, the internet today looks nothing like it did when it was born. What was once a decentralised network is now dominated by a few powerful tech behemoths with monopolistic control over their markets. The story of these companies can be explained by "network effects" — a theory that predates the internet but was famously expounded in the 1999 book Information Rules — which predicts that the digital world is mostly about size and user adoption. The more popular a tech product is, the more applications and users it will have. The rise of Facebook and Microsoft, in particular, can be explained by network effects. The internet is now a winner-takes-all market, and hence Big Tech finds itself under increasing government scrutiny. We tell the story of how the internet began and how it spread. By Aravindakshan S

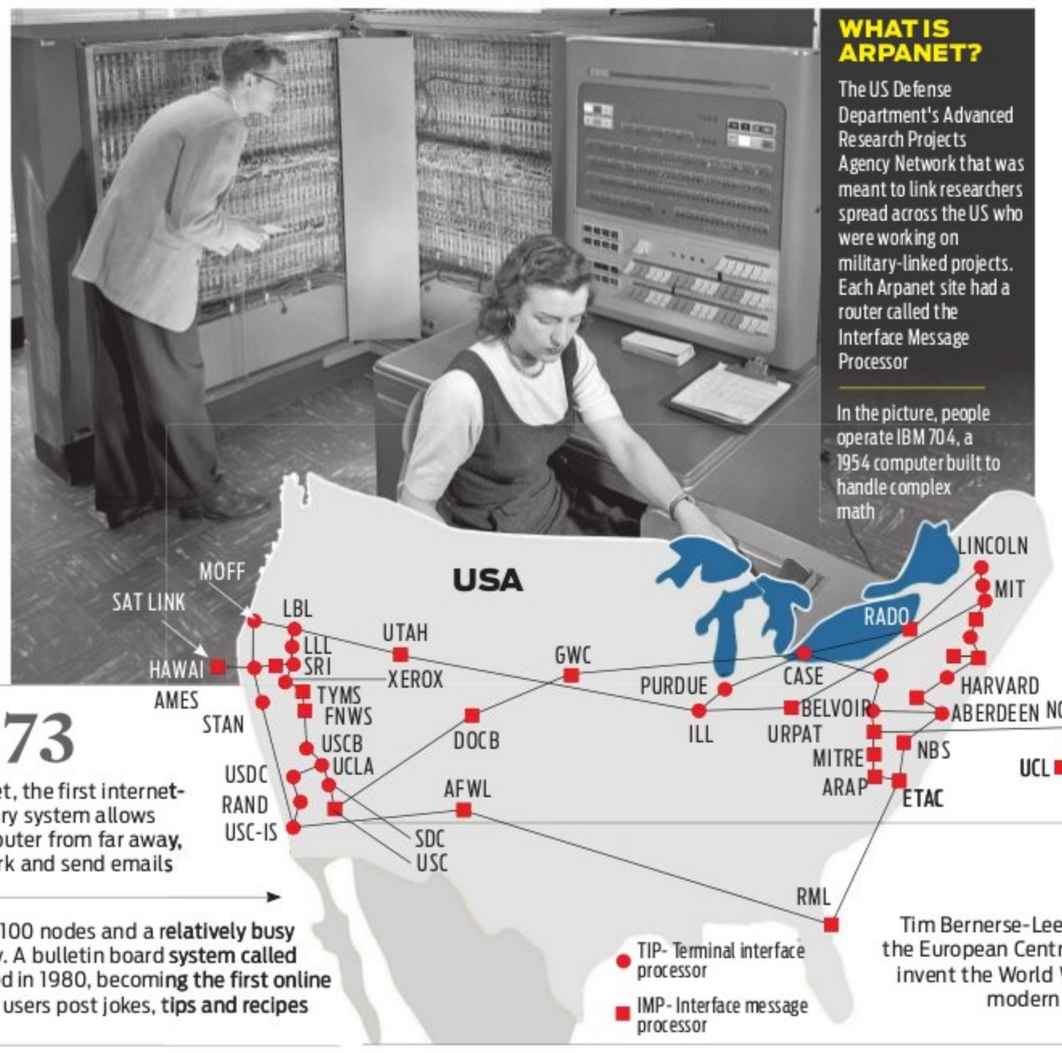
1969/ Sept 2

Techies at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA) create the first net connection, through a 15-foot cable between two computers. This was the precursor to the Arpanet

Oct 29: Arpanet is born after the UCLA techies connect to the Stanford Research Institute hundreds of kilometres away. The key part here is how Arpanet works: Messages are broken into blocks of data called packets that are sent independently of one another across the network (see "What is packet-switching")

1970

By the end of the year, Arpanet grows to 13 nodes, which include Harvard and MIT. An engineering consulting firm, Bolt, Beranek and Newman (BBN), does the tech work for building Arpanet. In 1973, Arpanet takes the first step to going global: Norway and the UK are linked to the US nodes



WHAT IS ARPANET?

The US Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency Network that was meant to link researchers spread across the US who were working on military-linked projects. Each Arpanet site had a router called the Interface Message Processor

In the picture, people operate IBM 704, a 1954 computer built to handle complex math

EXTENT OF ENTIRE INTERNET IN 1973

The map shows the whole of Arpanet, the first internet-like network, in 1973. This rudimentary system allows researchers to login to another computer from far away, transfer and save files on the network and send emails

1982

Arpanet now has 100 nodes and a relatively busy online community. A bulletin board system called Usenet is launched in 1980, becoming the first online forum, which lets users post jokes, tips and recipes

1983

Arpanet was managed by the military in the beginning, but then the network operators realised they couldn't manage it forever if it continued to expand. In a move that would decide internet's growth trajectory, they decided that Arpanet should be reorganised as a "network of networks", meaning that it should be decentralised. But how can such a decentralised system be made accessible? The US military asked computer scientists Robert Kahn and Vint Cerf to come up with an answer, and they developed the networking standards known as Transmission Control Protocol/ Internet Protocol, which gave us the format for transmitting data packets

1986

The internet's backbone, the National Science Network-funded supercomputing centres, is built up across the US, allowing high speeds for users. It should be noted that the internet was still tedious to navigate at this time and simple tasks such as email were cumbersome

1991

Tim Bernerse-Lee and Robert Cailliau of the European Centre for Nuclear Research invent the World Wide Web, birthing the modern internet as we know it

1994

The US government, headed by Bill Clinton, privatises the internet backbone, letting commercial firms be internet service providers. By this time, Arpanet has been decommissioned

DIGGING DEEPER

WHAT IS PACKET-SWITCHING

The networks that we used for voice telephones are circuit-switched, meaning that while you are talking there is an individual path in the whole network that is dedicated to you (and the person you are talking to)

The internet relies on a form of message-switching, which allows individual messages to be routed over the network on shared lines. Packet-switching improves this method further by splitting the messages into standard-length packets of data

Another way packet-switching made communication easier was that it used computer resources more efficiently and ensured that messages always got through

LAYERS OF INTERNET

1. TCP/IP internet protocols are the bedrock because they allow different kinds of networks and devices to exchange data. These protocols are mostly decentralised

2. On top of the protocols is the web as we know it, from social media to online search. Tech giants such as Google, Facebook, Microsoft and Baidu occupy large swathes of the second digital layer

3. Smartphones, cloud-computing and data troves. Here we can see more centralisation, with just two main mobile operating systems and three cloud-computing companies. Some internet giants are sitting on unimaginably big and growing piles of data about us

2017

Half of the world's population has internet access. India has way more mobile subscriptions per 100 people (87.3) than it does broadband subscriptions (1.33), as per UN data

Covid-19 set schools back by 20 years, says S Africa edu minister

EDUCATION

JOHANNESBURG: At least 10,000 children in South Africa have dropped out of school since the pandemic started, with students learning half or less than average in 2020 due to coronavirus, the education ministry said Sunday.

Face-to-face lessons have only partially resumed since South Africa's schools reopened in June last year, after more than two months of home-schooling to limit the spread of Covid-19.

Public schools have since been shut again over shorter periods -- including a delayed start to the 2021 academic year -- and most students still only physically attend class on a rotational basis to avoid crowding.

Education Minister Angie Motshekga on Sunday said that as a result, children in 2020 learnt between 50 and 75 per cent less than the previous year's average.

Coronavirus interruptions have also affected attendance, with 10,000 fewer children aged between seven and 14 enrolled in school in 2021, according to a preliminary analysis by the Department of Basic Education (DBE).

Enrolment was also 25,000 lower than expected for children aged between four and six, although less concerning for secondary school students.

"The unprecedented closures of our schools, and the unplanned disruptions to teaching and learning, have resulted in the reversal of gains made in the last 20 years," Motshekga said at a press briefing.

Most learning losses were observed in poorer rural areas and townships, where internet access is limited.

"If children are not in contact with teachers, especially children from disadvantaged communities, learning does not happen as it should," DBE researcher Martin Gustafsson told the briefing.

He added that primary school children were still only in class for an average of three days a week and had already missed half of planned learning this year.

Microsoft fixes critical cloud platform flaw

TECHNOLOGY

REDMOND: Microsoft says it has fixed a flaw in its cloud computing platform that cybersecurity researchers warned could have enabled hackers to take over a cloud-based database product used by many big companies.

The company said Friday there's no evidence the potential opening was exploited by malicious actors or that any customer data was exposed.

The cybersecurity firm Wiz, led by former Microsoft employees, said it discovered what it called an "unprecedented critical vulnerability" in Microsoft's Azure cloud platform and notified the tech giant earlier in August. Microsoft paid the firm a bounty for the discovery and said it immediately fixed the problem.

If exploited, the flaw could have affected "thousands of organizations, including numerous Fortune 500 companies," according to a blog post from Wiz, which is based in Israel and California.

SpaceX ships supplies to ISS

TECHNOLOGY

A SpaceX shipment of ants, avocados and a human-sized robotic arm rocketed toward the International Space Station (ISS) on Sunday. The delivery — due to arrive Monday — is the company's 23rd for NASA in just under a decade. A recycled Falcon rocket blasted into the predawn sky from NASA's Kennedy Space Center. After hoisting the Dragon capsule, the first-stage booster landed upright on SpaceX's newest ocean platform, named "A Shortfall of Gravitas." SpaceX founder Elon Musk continued his tradition of naming the booster-recovery vessels in tribute to the late science fiction writer Iain Banks and his Culture series . The Dragon is carrying more than 2,170 kilograms of supplies, fresh food including avocados, lemons and even ice cream.

CONSERVATION

Experts sent to the Galapagos Islands to count the critically endangered pink iguanas estimate that there are just 211 left. The expedition took place in Wolf Volcano in north Isabela Island — the largest on the archipelago. "In the census, 53 iguanas were located and (temporarily) captured, 94 per cent of which live more than 1,500 meters above sea level," said Galapagos National Park in a statement. The lizards were first discovered in 1986 and identified as a separate species from the Galapagos land iguana in 2009. Tapia, Director of the American Galapagos Conservancy NGO said, "being restricted to one site makes the species vulnerable. Urgent action is required to guarantee their preservation".

Fossil of amphibious four-legged whale discovered in Egypt

PALAEONTOLOGY

CAIRO: Egyptian scientists have discovered the fossil of a new species of amphibious whale that dates back 43 million years, a member of the research team said.

This amphibious four-legged whale helps trace the transition of these animals from land to sea. "This is a species that was not known" previously, said Hesham Sallam, an Egyptian palaeontologist from the team. "This is the first time that an Arab research team, specifically an Egyptian one, is in charge of documenting such a discovery," he said on television late Thursday.

The fossil was found southwest of Cairo in the Fayum region, a part of Egypt that was once covered by sea and is home to Whale Valley, a UNESCO World Heritage site.

The newly discovered species, which was more than three metres (10 feet) long and weighed about 600 kilograms (about 1,320 pounds), has been named Phiomicetus anubis.

Egypt's environment ministry said in a statement Wednesday that the species of whale "was the most ferocious and ancient in Africa".

"The whale had both the ability to walk on land and swim in the sea," it said, adding that the discovery was evidence of the evolution of whales from land mammals to marine mammals.

"An anatomical study of the fossil shows that this new species of whale is completely different from other known species," the ministry said.

It was a "large predator with large, powerful jaws" that allowed it to "control the environment in which it lived".

Brown dwarf-like objects found

SPACE

An international team of researchers has identified five objects that have masses near the border separating stars and brown dwarfs that could help scientists understand the nature of these mysterious objects. Brown dwarfs are astronomical objects with masses between those of planets and stars. The question of where exactly the limits of their mass lie remains a matter of debate, especially since their constitution is very similar to that of low-mass stars. "Even with these additional objects, we still lack the numbers to draw conclusions about the differences between brown dwarfs and low-mass stars," said Nolan Grieves, a researcher in the Department of Astronomy at the University of Geneva. The objects found are so close to the limit that they could be very low-mass stars or brown dwarfs.

Unhappy over Danish Sait's recent video depicting the life of food delivery partners, this anonymous Twitter handle called out the actor; aims to expose exploitative work culture of the sector

Honestly, I wasn't aware of the undercurrent on Twitter. When I did get to learn of the movement, I decided to take the video down. It was made in good faith, with just one purpose - acknowledging the effort of delivery partners and how easy they make our lives

- Danish Sait, actor/comedian

SANATH PRASAD

DANISH Sait's latest video depicting the life of a delivery partner has irked many, including an anonymous Twitter handle (@delivery bhoy), who is on a mission to stand up against the harsh working conditions of delivery agents. Recently, Sait, comedian-actor-content creator, found himself in a sticky situation, after his paid partnership with a popular food delivery app was at the receiving end of harsh backlash.

Sait, in particular, called out by the Twitter handle, who pointed out that his portrayal of a delivery agent was far from reality. Delivery Bhoy aka Rahul Singh (name changed on request) feels the loopholes in the system need to be cleared from within. He believes that the French Biryani actor lacked the knowledge and understanding of the nature of jobs of delivery executives. "As delivery executives, we don't sit with a mug of coffee and wait for an order to come in. We are not given any sort of warm welcome at restaurants, neither do we have the time to chat with their staff as depicted in the video," says Singh, who works with a prominent food delivery app. Owing to the current job scenario, Singh, who holds a Master's degree in English Literature, was compelled to work as a delivery partner. Ruffled by the industry's working environment, Singh, through his Twitter handle, aims to expose the poor working conditions forced upon delivery executives.

The trigger point for Singh to speak against the injustice, was when he met with an accident three months ago. "I was all well with the work until I met with an accident and escaped with minor injuries. The company made no effort to help me. This is when I decided to expose all the falsehoods of what they promise their employees," says Singh, who works as a telecaller by day and delivery partner by night. He said that the food delivery app model has put every rider in debt. "It is very tough for any rider to jump the ship and quit the job because of financial constraints," he rues.

The aggressive mode of riding and skipping signals is because the company withholds the time information from the delivery partner, claims Singh. Contrary to the belief created in the video where Sait claims that there is a deadline to catch, "the truth, however, is more complex". "The rider is not given the information of when to reach the restaurant or the time to deliver the food. We are bombarded with automated calls from executives who constantly inquire on the status of the delivery of the package. The only option the rider has is to zoom past the streets to deliver on time, otherwise, he is fined. The video featuring Danish Sait is something that is happening in a parallel universe," says Singh, who now demands for the imposition of regulations in the system. Sait, who later apologised and deleted the video from his social media accounts, took to Twitter to clarify the intention of the video. "I respect the work you (Singh) do. I promise you the intent of the video came from a good place; the purpose was to celebrate and appreciate what delivery partners do, in fact that's how the video ends – it emphasises on how much easy they make our lives," he wrote.

Meet this young Bengalurean, the artist behind the customised art works on luxury French brand's Louis Vuitton products

'BAG'GING THE RIGHT ROLE

ANILA KURIAN

IF you've strolled through UB City recently, you would've come across a young artist dabbling with colours and creating careful strokes on bags, totes and trunks. Twenty six-year-old Jessica George (@poison_ivy) the in-house artist for luxury brand Louis Vuitton (LV), is the person behind the Calvin and Hobbes illustrations, quirky designs andfloral patterns that are quite a rage especially among those who use this brand of items.

The mixed-media artist and muralist started working with LV in March 2021, and hand paints and customises various products for LV. George landed the job quite by fluke. "Since I was taking up freelance projects, one of my acquaintances told me that someone was looking for customisation of their products. With a little prodding, I learnt that it was for LV's products. I was shocked to say the least," she says with a laugh.

After a series of tests and interviews, George, a graduate of Srishti Institute of Art, Design and Technology, eventually landed the job. "The added customisation is a part of the LV service and it's done on hard surface products - that's where I come in," she says. Customisation works that George has done include a Calvin and Hobbes painting on an LV trunk, floral designs, and typography with the LV mascot, Vivienne, a doll from the brand's iconic motif. George says, "The trunks are obviously heavy. Though they are functional, they aren't easily moveable. People have been using them as home decor or coffee tables... I paint and customise those as well."

She often has visitors stopping by to simply watch her work. "I am at the Bengaluru store on weekends and regular customers are surprised to see me there, painting. Some of them are shy to approach me but the conversation always goes 'Can we watch you paint?'"

So, what helps those creative juices flow? A bright sunny day and lots of greenery. "That's what brings out my creative side. Once the sun goes down, I'm quite useless," she chuckles.

However, it wasn't a cakewalk for George. She did a lot of "odd jobs" before realising that not all artists need to be graphic designers. "I have always worked as an independent artist, but I took up freelancing full-time in 2020," she says.

Speaking about her future plans, George wants to explore more home spaces and mural art. "I know that I have the energy to do it now – something I might not be able to do in another 10 years. At the moment, I'm soaking in all the experiences that I am gaining every day," she says.

Small steps towards BIG change

A Class 11 student from Bengaluru shares his tech skills and knowledge to empower young students in a refugee centre in Malaysia

EXPRESS FEATURES

A couple of months ago, Rohan Jacob, a Class 11 student from Canadian International School (CIS) watched his mother volunteering as an online teacher for a refugee centre in Malaysia. Inspired by his mother's service towards society, Jacob too signed up as a volunteer at the Zotung Refugee Catholic Learning Centre (ZRCLC) in Kuala Lumpur, to help students and teachers use Google Classroom that he learned in school.

"Through my own academic experience and use of Google Classroom in school, I realised that the centre in Malaysia could use Google Classroom that would streamline academic activities for both students and teachers. I put together a PPT using my ICT and presentation skills that I learned in school and pitched the idea to the refugee centre. They agreed and I helped the staff use Google Classroom. I also took classes for 12 and13 year olds on responsible gaming. I got the opportunity to help students learn skills that we have access to and I really enjoy doing work like this. I believe that training students and teachers in technology is important and I am glad to contribute towards making a better future for these kids," he says.

The Kuala Lumpur centre's goal is to provide a safe learning environment for refugee children between the ages of 3 and 15 and prepare them with applicable life skills when they are resettled in their new adopted country, or when they are required to wait in Malaysia for their return to their native countries.

Jacob also uses his spare time to volunteer for Bengaluru-based NGO, ASHA, which provides education and support to children with severe disabilities and autism. He helped prepare class notes and simplify them to supplement the academic studies of the children. Commenting on Jacob's initiative to volunteer for NGOs, Shweta Sastri, managing director of the school, said, "I truly appreciate Rohan for taking up social work in the form of teaching skills to students and teachers online which is the need of the hour. This is particularly helpful to refugee children as well as to those with special needs. I hope more students would join Rohan in his endeavour to help people who are in need of such skills."

SURABHI MUDRA

(KAMADHENU MUDRA)

In Sanskrit, Surabhi means 'cow' in Indian mythology and mudra means 'sacred gesture' or 'seal.' This Kamadhenu (wish-fulfilling) Mudra is much helpful to maintain good health. It is named after Surabhi, daughter of the divine cow Kamadhenu, and the placement of the fingers in this mudra symbolizes the udders of the cow. This is used to treat rheumatism, arthrosis, bile and gout. It stimulates the Manipura (solar plexus) Chakra and brings all five elements into balance, particularly by calming the fire element.

STEPS

- Sit in any comfortable seating postures like Padmasana, Siddhasana, Vajrasana, and place the hands with palm pointing upwards on the thighs or the knees.
- Close your eyes and take some deep breath with awareness of the breathing process.
- Then, bring your hands in front of the chest and touch the tip of the little finger of the right hand with the tip of the ring finger of the left.
- After this, touch the tip of the index finger of the right hand with the tip of the middle finger of the left hand.
- Then, touch the tip of the index finger of the left hand with the tip of the middle finger of the right hand. Maintain the position of this pose in front of the chest.
- While doing the posture, you need to take a deep and regular breath. When you perform this action, you can sing any type of mantra in the mind.
- Perform this pose for 35 minutes every day.

BENEFITS

- It is the only currency that mitigates all three doshas (Vata, Pitta, and Kapha).
- This awakens Kundalini Shakti.
- Stimulates the Manipura chakra (solar plexus), which deals with creativity and self-esteem, thus promoting qualities. It brings all the five elements (Panch Tattva) into balance.
- Enhances digestive power and helps in reducing cholesterol.
- Practising this mudra for 30 minutes daily for a month helps to detoxify the body, brings inner peace or focus.

LIMITATIONS

- While performing this, the thumb should not touch the root of any of the fingers.

HEALING TOUCH

With the presence of fatty acids, vitamins A, C and E, rosehip oil nourishes the skin, making it look fresh, vibrant, healthier, and well hydrated

(The author is social media influencer @loftyspectrums and lifestyle coach)

THE benefits of rosehip oil are endless. Rosehip oil comes from the hip and seeds of a certain variety of rose flower. It is packed with essential fatty acids, vitamins A, C and E and antioxidants. The fatty acids found in rosehip oil penetrate deep and work very well on dry, parched and dehydrated skin; leaving it supple and nourished. It also helps with balancing oily skin.

Benefits

1 It may help smooth wrinkles owing to the essential fatty acids like oleic, linoleic, and gamma linoleic acids that are absorbed by the skin easily. It evens out skin tone, reduces the appearance of scars and blemishes. Hence, it has a glowing, brightening impact on the skin.

2 It is a great emollient and thus helps to do away with dry, rough skin of heels, elbows and even heals conditions like eczema, and psoriasis. It soothes the skin and works without leaving any residue.

3 Due to the presence of astringent properties, the oil not only tightens the pores but it also lightens the skin tone.

4 Its astringent qualities make it ideal for being used to fight acne. If used on face for 10 minutes before washing it off, it unclogs the pores as it is non-comedogenic and prevents pimples.

5 It's an anti-ageing regimen for those who are looking out for natural moisturisers rather than chemicals on their skin. Since it is rich in vitamins A and C, it boosts collagen production.

6 Under eye dark circles could be banished if rose hip oil is used mixed with a few drops of coconut oil or any oil rich in vitamin E.

7 Mix it with hyaluronic acid to make the skin look supple and well hydrated.

8 It's a great lip balm if mixed with a little rose petals and coconut oil.

9 Rosehip oil is beneficial for scalp and can be used for promoting healthy hair growth. It takes care of the dry scalp and dandruff, adding silkiness, volume and bounce to hair.

Marie Kapetanakis, founder and CEO of Kosmea, an Australian skin care brand that rolled out its rosehip oil in India, recently, says, "Organic rosehip oil owing to its significant skin nourishing and healing qualities, gives it healthier and more vibrant glow. The certified organic rosehip oil contains essential fatty acids, vitamins and antioxidants, which can help repair and regenerate damaged skin tissues by treating acne, scarring and wrinkles."

For its tangy flavour, rosehip oil, traditionally used in culinary preparations, is being used both fresh and dry in both sweet and savoury dishes, and in herbal tea. Owing to its medicinal value and healing and anti-inflammatory properties, it was used in wartime in ancient days. Rosehip seed oil was made into a syrup to provide relief from indigestion, diarrhoea, infection, stomach and menstrual cramps and nausea.

While other sports may have suffered due to the pandemic, the game of bridge which has gone online, has flourished as a sport

Building bridges online

National-level bridge tourneys are now being played from the comfort of home, thanks to the pandemic

R VENKATESH has been playing the game of bridge for over 27 years but now, he opts for its online version that he once used to turn to only for "practice sessions" and "casual games" with friends. Due to the ongoing pandemic, the game, which was included in the Asian Games and Commonwealth Games in 2018, has taken the online route. It has also been recognised as a sport by the International Olympic Committee. "Now, even serious tournaments, at the national, international and local levels, have become online. This has democratised the game of bridge. It has found newer talents and has enabled players to play with more established people. Here, you can also record the game which makes it easier to analyse the deals," says Venkatesh.

There's been a boom with increasing numbers showing interest in the game in recent times. Mini Naidoo, a resident of Bengaluru, finds the growth "heartening". Apart from actively playing tournaments, she is busy teaching people to play the game online. "It has caught on well; many people from abroad and in India are joining in," says Naidoo, who isn't missing the hassle of logistics involved with in-person games.

The daily, weekly and monthly tournaments have fostered team spirit and helped the bridge-playing community stick together in these times. For the first time, city-based player Sujata Puranik Rakhta, was able to participate in the premier league of the game online which was organised by the Karnataka State Bridge Association (KSBA). "Due to long hours of interactions on Zoom and Google Meet, people got the opportunity to know each other better," she says, adding that the only drawback is that in online tournaments, "there's always room to cheat."

But as student Shubham Acharya puts it, for upcoming players, this pandemic has been a blessing in disguise, as it has helped connect with the fraternity, and has given aspiring players a platform to wrestle against professionals. "But then again, there is a certain atmosphere that you cannot replicate online, and not to forget, the good food - I miss that," he adds.

Fast and Furious: ZOMBIES

@quofles

(This economics graduate spends her leisure time preparing for the zombie apocalypse)

Online gaming has a subset of gamers that are as non-toxic as Britney Spears' hit song. These gamers play co-operative, or relatively non-competitive games. I have chanced upon them in Roblox, Sea of Thieves, Ghost of Tsushima, and most recently – Left4dead. Although, it is possible that I caught the community at a good time, so niceness could be a coincidence.

The Left4dead franchise is a frantic, action-packed, zombie hunting adventure. It is a good time to get on to this series, since the next edition of the game releases this October.

"Back 4 Blood" releases 12 whole years after "Left 4 Dead 2". This is a mildly big deal, specifically because of the improvements this upgrade provides. We had a glimpse of it last week, during the game's open beta. Apart from being a test that gave developers information on the game's playability, it provided hype for us zombie-fighting enthusiasts. The best upgrade so far is the cross-platform opportunity. PS, PC and Xbox players can unite in B4B, and defeat swarms of zombies together.

B4B's graphics upgrade improves to a "good" from "playable, I guess..." rating in L4D2. There are newer, more fleshed-out variations of the walking dead. There's a wider selection of weapons — melee and ranged. The sounds sound better. A new selection of characters, armed with not just unique weapons — but also customised, quirky commentary. The levels feel more well put-together too! The chaos of attacks just feels better organised in the new game.

For those who are unfamiliar with the idea of co-operative Player vs Enemy games, here's why you should get in on the B4B bandwagon. The horror is not jump-scary. You know exactly what to expect — an infinite horde of zombies scurrying in your direction. The game is a great stress-buster, in that you can constantly shoot in the direction of these brainless puppets, watch them scatter and fall. It is fast, and you can win by being reckless. It requires very little skill, you don't need to even aim at a zombie, because there's one everywhere. It is more satisfying than clapping your hands during mosquito season – because the probability of hurting yourself in B4B is lesser. A 10/10 for its first sequel this decade.

Away we'll go... on a fantasy flight

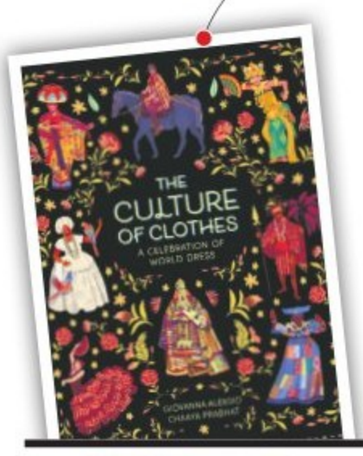
MENAKA RAMAN

The past 17 months have seen our children's worlds shrink. For so many young people, their days, once filled with raucous school bus rides, classroom shenanigans, sports, art, music, dance and play, have been reduced to a series of interactions viewed through a rectangle on computers, phones and tablets. Birthdays, summer camps, extracurriculars and even just hanging out with their friends and family have become things that happen almost exclusively online.

Travel during vacations feels like a thing of the past for those of us privileged enough to afford and experience it. Travel doesn't just give us some R&R, but also offers us a glimpse into the lives, cultures, food and languages of other people. In these times, when there's a hesitancy to step into a plane or train, we can find ways to bring the world into our children's lives through books. Here's a selection of new and not-so-new books for a range of reading ages and interests that provide some armchair travelling for children.

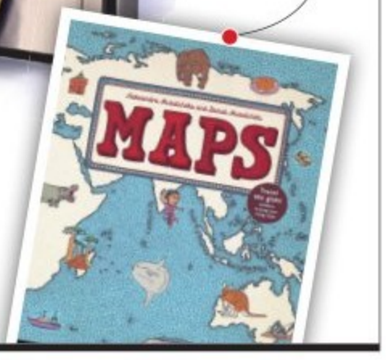
The Arrival
by Shaun Tan

Shaun Tan's wordless book, The Arrival, isn't new but feels oddly right for the moment we are in. A nameless immigrant arrives in a strange new place having left his loved ones behind to make a life for themselves there. As we find ourselves at the shores of the new normal, the themes of fear, loneliness, confusion and longing resonate.



The Culture of Clothes: A Celebration of World Dress by Giovanna Alessio and Chaaya Prabhat

This gorgeous book is bursting with colour. Pour over the costumes, accessories and traditions of communities from countries around the world and learn something new about them. Meet the 5,000 strong Miao tribe of Guizhou, China, who wear ceremonial headdresses made mostly from human hair collected over the years. The elaborate headdresses are wrapped around a horn-shaped frame, held in place with a white ribbon and can weigh up to 4 kg.



Maps
by Aleksandra Mizielinska and Daniel Mizielinski

This beautifully illustrated atlas invites readers to travel the globe without leaving their living room. I think it's a lovely companion book to The Culture of Clothes and is filled with lots of tiny details about each country that's sure to keep curious young minds engaged.

KRISHNA-PC SHEKHAR-KADDIPUDI CHANDRU COLLABORATE FOR A ROMANTIC COMEDY

The trio is teaming up for the first time; film shooting to begin in October

CE FEATURES

Krishna-PC Shekhar-Kaddipudi Chandru

Krishna, the Love Mocktail hero, who is working on back-to-back films, has lined up one more project. The actor will be teaming up with director PC Shekhar for a romantic comedy, which will be produced by M Chandru of Kaddipudi fame. The director confirmed the news in a chat with CE and spoke about his return to the genre of romantic drama.

"My last romantic drama was with Romeo starring Ganesh after which I went on to direct other genres. Both the lockdowns helped me to work on various scripts and have got some ideas for romantic films as well," says PC Shekhar. "He liked the story that I presented to him, and we decided to collaborate for a project. About roping in Krishna as the lead hero, I had watched him in Love Mocktail, and I felt he was apt to this romantic comedy drama," he adds. The team plans to start shooting sometime in mid-October. "This will be a joyful film, and will be one of those flicks which have re-watch value." Meanwhile, director Shekhar is set to helm a romantic thriller starring Manvitha Kamath. He plans to begin the shoot from September first week. Krishna's currently juggling between Mr. Bachelor, Sugar Factory, and Love Me or Hate Me. Meanwhile, he has greenlit director Shiva Tejas's film.

A still from Rider

'THE CHARACTER IN RIDER IS TAILOR-MADE FOR ME'

says Nikhil Kumarswamy, who spoke to CE about his next — a feel-good-love story with a sports backdrop

KASHMIRA PARDESI ON RIDER

Kashmira Pardesi is making her Kannada debut with Rider. The actor, who plays the female lead, says it was a lovely ride because the team was good. "As an actor, it was quite important to pick up the right script and see how my character can enhance the film. The director, who was the main anchor behind this script, had designed the film so well and helped me to pull it off very well. I have travelled with a film for almost two years. But, it was all worth it, as I got to spend a lot of time with the production house and team. I'm glad we have finally finished the shooting, and I'm looking forward to watching it in theatres. All in all, Rider will be a good debut in Kannada," she says.

A SHARADHAA

NIKHIL Kumarswamy, who has completed shooting for his next, Rider, will now be dubbing for the film. There is just one song sequence left for shooting in the Vijay Kumar Konda directorial, which is being made in Kannada and Telugu.

Speaking about working in Rider during the pandemic, Nikhil says, "This script was something that was tailor-made for me. The thought of such a subject came to me while I was in the last phase of Seetharama Kalyana shooting, and I shared my subject idea with the director, and we got a beautiful script in hand. The film has shaped up well."

Divulging details about what went behind the ideation of Rider, Nikhil says, "The film, which is essentially a feel-good love story also comes with a sports backdrop. This was the one-liner I wanted to explore in the film," says the actor, adding, "There is a lot of entertainment factors too with Chikanna, Manju Pavagada, and Santhu. The father-son bonding between Achyuth Kumar and me will also be one of the highlights of the film. Kashmira Pardesi too surprised us all with her performance, and her part in the film is an added advantage."

This is the first time that Nikhil and Vijay are working together, and the actor feels that the filmmaker brought out a wonderful story from the one-liner. "He is a flexible director, and doesn't have any ego, and it helped me to build a rapport. Ultimately as actor and director, we intend to bring out a good film to the audience, and Rider will deliver it," he says.

Incidentally, Nikhil's previous two films had him take responsibilities as producer too. Rider has him collaborate with producer Chandru Manoharan, and Nikhil says that it allowed him to completely focus on his acting. The actor says that the film's production is in full swing, and the team is working towards releasing the film as soon as possible. "We are looking at hitting theaters in 2021 and we are looking at a good release date. Making cinema and releasing at the right time is very important, and it is something we are concentrating on," he says. The film is bankrolled by Lahari Music in association with Sunil Gowda.

Nikhil, who is soon to become a father, is taking a short break for his paternal duties. He will soon kick-start shooting for his next, which will be an Manju Atharva film bankrolled by KVN Productions. "I will begin shooting for my next in October," he signs off.
